PRESIDENT'S DESK

Arthur Sipe

My sincere thanks are extended to all the corporate clubs and the individual members who placed my name in nomination for the presidency of the American Numismatic Association.

It is indeed a high honor and a privilege to be called upon to serve as the president of the world's largest numismatic organization. I assure you that I will continue to support and uphold the very best interests of our association to the best of my ability, as I have endeavored to do over the past ten years as a member of the board of governors.

Our association is only as strong and vigorous as its membership. The board has approved a plan suggested by our Colorado Springs staff to increase the membership of this association by an awards program for individual and club performances in securing new members. I hope all of you will get behind and promote this drive to increase the number of our fellow numismatists belonging to ANA.

All around us are collectors who are not now members of our association. With all that we have to offer our members from our new home and headquarters location such as a revised and informative publication, The Numismatist, the Club Bulletin, library, visual aids, registration, and forthcoming authentication of coins and many other services, each of us should be able to get at least one new member within the next several months. Let each of us invite our collector friends and associates to join the ANA if they are not now members.

Our new home and headquarters is housed in a real functional building which will enable our association's staff in Colorado Springs to greatly expand its many services to our entire membership; this building with its furnishings is debt free, thanks to your generosity.

A third man is needed in our home office to perform many duties including the direction of our new museum area. We do need additional security to perpetuate our efforts in the form of endowment funds and hope many of you will respond to this need.

...In Search of the Past

The period known as the Middle Ages, coming between the end of the Roman Empire and the brilliance of the Renaissance, seems for many observers to have been a dark, dismal historic void into which to conveniently place the greatest era of man's ignorance. For this reason it is often called the Dark Ages and, as every student has dutifully learned, is a segment of European history supposedly characterized by the long sleep of intellectual thought and man's inability to assert his individuality. Surprisingly enough, this view of medieval times is both untrue and unfortunate.

Although all those grand and noble purposes to which Mediterranean man had set himself began to fade away, the medieval era gave birth to new creations in artistic technique, provided a time for man to digest and recover from all those ancient heritages which had gone before, and allowed mankind to develop an entirely new form of social structure. Learning in the Greek or Roman sense of the word was discarded; intellectual pursuits in the western world were unimportant compared to the rise of "Christian Man" who relied upon the Medieval Church for his existence. But amid the intolerance, the neighborly mistrust, the fear of non-conformity, the ever-present warfare and a somewhat fanatical clergy, there nevertheless emerged a few tiny winking lights of creativity that at times penetrated the long period of darkness.

Figure 2, a manuscript illumination produced about 1458, shows the little stalls of travelling merchants that were often set up just outside the city wall. Buyers could leisurely venture along the wall and purchase whatever was for sale. This miniature painting also gives a hint of what went on inside the city and even visually describes the type of dress worn by people during the period. The peasants in Figure 3 show some typical costumes to even better advantage. Nevertheless, in spite of the existence of coined money, Medieval man for a time reverted to barter and a substantial system of trade.

The Middle Ages was a period of feudal castles (Germany had 10,000 alone) built by manor lords for the protection of the immediate community which paid allegiance to these wealthy rulers. The community of peasants and serfs worked the land and furnished soldiers for the lord's army. When invaders attacked the lord's property, a tower bell or bugle summoned the threatened laborers to the safety of the castle walls from which they fought with crossbow, shield and spear. Eventually, whole cities sprang up around a single castle, and thick outer walls were built completely around the entire city. Daily business stalls, merchant shops and homes were erected inside these large walls while fields of crops and grazing lands spread out beyond.

Nowhere is the bleakness of the medieval period pointed up more sharply than in the pitiful design and production of coins. Poring over those simple creations of uncaring minds, the modern numismatist reads in their poorly-conceived surfaces the handiwork of minters who had little heart for the tasks before them. Impatience ruled unsteady arms that brought the hammers crashing against the coin dies. Carelessness urged the die cutters to substitute worn letter-punches instead of making punches anew that could have resulted in finer designs.

The coins were formalistic, often rigid and lacked that wonderfully creative spirit and sensitivity which characterizes the coins of Greece and Rome.

For several years I had wondered what kind of men made these ill-begotten pieces and tried to reflect upon the every day world in which they lived and moved. Those first thoughts eventually led me to a five year search for the answers to a whole host of questions about the Middle Ages, and introduced me to a forgotten, untrod page out of the history of coins. In my search for this past record, I managed to uncover a series of artistic renderings that slowly brought to light the workings and detailed appearance of the medieval minting house. Some of these scenes will be familiar to those numismatists who have viewed them often. Other are rarely seen in American numismatic publications, and two of them to my knowledge are unpublished in numismatics in this country.

The art of past centuries was concerned mostly with nobility and scenes of sculpture having Christian themes. Very seldom, in comparison, did commissioned artists concern themselves with every day life. For this reason, few scenes of a truly numismatic nature were ever produced. Those that were created were done so not so much from an attempt to portray a numismatic scene but rather as incidental illustrations in a larger volume or book. In any event, the illustrations are presented as attempts by past artists to record for posterity the events and times to which they were witness. They painted and carefully cut into wood what they wanted us to see. In doing so, they unwittingly provided us with an ever-present danger to interpretation.

Certainly the medieval minting house was not as clean and uncluttered as these artists wished us to believe. Look closely at the faces of the figures in the illustrations, for they all seem almost uniformly sad and unlively. Yet the Middle Ages was characterized by festivals and celebrations that sometimes lasted for many days, and were extremely happy, playful events of great social importance among the peasants. The artwork at the end of the medieval era, which is when the scenes pictured in this article were produced, is therefore indicative of the artists' own interpretations. On our journey in search of the past, then, we are relying upon a group of prejudicial tour guides who nevertheless have passed on to us a glimpse into their own busy world.

Without central heating and modern storm windows or air conditioning, the minting house of the Middle Ages was uncomfortable in every season. Working by whatever sunlight came through the windows or glowed from the open hearth, mint workers solemnly passed their days in the monotonous manufacture of coinage. A scene such as that pictured in Figure 4 defines the entire process from raw metal to finished product. The scene is from a woodcut by the German artist Hans Burgkmair and was included in a volume written and illustrated for King Maximilian I in

In the center of the picture, a worker flattens a square piece of metal with a flogging hammer. His anvil is crudely buried in a tree stump. From the beater, the sheet-metal is passed to the cutter who cuts out the coin blanks and trims them round. The metal shears he uses are over-size; possibly to emphasize their presence and probably because they were in fact of that large size to provide the necessary leverage. One handle has its end fitted with a spike, which is driven into the table top to give the cutter better control. On the same table are several containers holding coin blanks.

The worker who actually strikes the coins is the right. One hand holds the heavy hammer while the other positions the planchet between the two dies (one of which is buried in a tree stump). His assistant, not in the picture, retrieves and replaces the struck coins as they are finished. The round containers beside the striker presumably hold the finished coins.

A mint overseer, seated in the rear of the room with his scales and order books, is apparently explaining the minting process to a visiting dignitary. Another possibility is that the overseer of the mint is taking an order for coinage from some nobleman's emissary. The purpose of the illustration, to show a mint scene in one of Maximilian's cities, gives us no clue to the intended actions of the overseer and we are left to the very unprofessional position of speculating.

Hans Burgkmair was not the first reputable artist to create the scene of a medieval mint, nor was he the last in the early years of a Renaissance that had just barely begun to touch his part of the world when he created this woodcut. He lived from 1473 to 1531, and his woodcut is supposedly a reliable piece of contemporary work created in the later years of his life. As a carry-over from the medieval period, the mint Burgkmair copied existed even while he copied it as opposed to a scene he might have remembered from earlier years. It is, then, not a conception.

The portrayal of the medieval minting house appears frequently enough in such a rash of woodcuts and paintings that the modern researcher begins to suspect plagiarism. The scenes are so nearly alike, even to the "frozen" positions of the figures as they go about their separate tasks, that the numismatist cannot bring himself to believe they are all original works. The two scenes in Figures 5 and 6 are highly suspect. My own research has failed to uncover the authors of these two renderings and they remain anonymous works which return to plague and tantalize us again and again with their aura of semi-unrespectability.

The illustration in Figure 5 was found in the publication The Pictorial Gallery of Arts: The Useful Arts, published in London in the late 1800's by George Cox, 18 King Street. The plate engraving depicts a German minting house in the Middle Ages. If the engraving was first produced in that volume, it most certainly is a copy of Hans Burgkmair's work. Three hundred years separate the two views!

Absent from Burgkmair's rendering, however, is the coin striker's assistant who is visibly present in this view. All the other figures are the same; they are in the same places in the setting, holding exactly the same positions, using exactly the same tools. The only difference is in the clothing and faces of the workers, and the angles of the two scenes.

The scene in Figure 6, again, is an obvious plagiarism in that the view is a near-exact reproduction of Hans Burgkmair's woodcut. The changes once more are only slight; the checkered tile floor, faces of the workers (the beater is bald now), the position of the visitor in the back of the room. In this rendering, the coin-chest usually found in the foreground is absent.

Inasmuch as these three scenes are so nearly alike, we can accept any one of them as a reliable representation of a western European medieval mint if we accept the fact that Burgkmair's work is original and accurate. For a known and respected artist of his caliber, I think there is little reason for doubt.

In my search for the medieval mint, I soon found I was willing to go to almost any length to track down a picture. The librarians in the art department at St. Louis Public Library were extremely congenial and helpful and went far beyond the usual amenities accorded researchers. Because of their suggestions, I was able to uncover several other mint scenes not generally known to numismatists; at least they have not been pictured in the past ten years.

A volume containing the works of William Shakespeare, printed by Scott, Foresman & Company in the past twenty years, had been a constant companion of mine since school days. Somehow I had missed the medieval mint scene used as an illustration in that book, but now it loomed larger than ever. More questioning revealed that it first appeared as a woodcut illustration in Raphael Holinshed's large work, Chronicles of England, Scotland and Ireland, published in 1577. A letter from Philip Knachel of the Folger Shakespeare Library in Washington, D.C., confirmed my earlier information and was accompanied by the view shown here as Figure 7.

Once more for the delight of the numismatist, the mint is carefully laid out for us to see in all its detail. The busy workers are all there; the beater flattening his metal plates, the cutter hurriedly trimming the planchets, and the striker hammering the blanks into coins. The scene is authentic, and with Hans Burgkmair's fine woodcut now confirmed the appearance of a medieval mint and easily defined the entire process of creating coins. I was jubilant at this turn of events.

Returning to the St. Louis Public Library a few months later, I was handed a pile of old brochures and pamphlets to look through in hopes of finding more clues to the history of how coins were made. Secluded deep inside an unobtrusive booklet was a blurred reproduction of a picture that seemed to be a minting scene. From that blurred and spotted photo came the discovery of two medieval manuscript illuminations, in color, which made all my other findings pale in comparison.

The caption under the dim photo mentioned the City Hall of Berne, Switzerland, to which I immediately applied for information. Their reply directed me to the City Library (Burgerbibliothek) of Berne and also included the name of Foto Thierstein, a local photographic firm. My order to Thierstein arrived some six weeks later; an 8 x 10 ektachrome transparency of the manuscript page containing the hand-painted illumination. The volume from which it was taken is entitled The Speizer Chronik, p. 222, and is a regional history written and compiled by Diebold Schilling in 1485. A black-white reproduction of the scene appears as Figure 8.

The Speizer scene was the earliest representation of a medieval mint I had encountered up to this time. What a stroke of good fortune it was! Further correspondence with Dr. H. Haeberli at the Burgerbibliothek in Berne disclosed that Schilling had written his Chronik at the personal request of Rudolph von Erlach, mayor of Berne, and that it was an account of the social, political and economic affairs of Berne and surrounding areas in the 15th century.

Studying the illustration is always a delight. In the background against the wall is a furnace kept burning by the huge bellows that force air across surprise, the original assumptions about the visitors to the mint were true; they were just that, visitors. In this scene the fact is apparent. The owner of the mint is here showing off his operations to some visiting dignitaries, even counting on his fingers (perhaps saying how many coins are produced in a day?).

Throughout the scene, tools and chests and containers are neatly placed, but then the artist was careful to create the best possible impression. A water bucket with its long snout sits beside the half-empty table; hammer and shears carelessly laid aside; metal strips resting on the table; all the earmarks of a mint in operation.

In color, the scene is exciting in its daintiness although the artist has lost perspective in several places and the lines of the basic drawing show through in numerous instances. The bellows and all the furniture are a light yellow; the beater's clothes nearly purple, and his hat and the striker's shirt a deep maroon. The cutter wears a green sweater over a maroon shirt and trousers. These same colors are also prominent in the dress of the overseer and his visitors. All the figures have yellow hair.

The ektachrome had no sooner arrived than Thierstein informed me by letter that they had located still another hand-painted illumination, also by Diebold Schilling. The pronouncement seemed to me too incredible to believe at the time, but I was quickly assured it was a different scene - and also in color! However, it was located at the City Library (Zentralbibliothek) in Lucerne. I quickly agreed to pay the photographer's transportation costs for driving the 42 miles from Berne to Lucerne, and the work began. If I were fortunate enough, in a month's time I would have an 8 x 10 ektachrome of another illustration of the medieval minting process - and I felt certain neither had ever been published in an American numismatic publication.

When the package arrived, it proved to be just as Thierstein had promised - with more color than the first Schilling rendering possessed. The view is reproduced in Figure 10, a unique and lively painting more than four hundred fifty years old!

Without any explanation of the scene, I was still not satisfied that it was authentic. A letter to the Zentralbibliothek was answered courteously and promptly by Dr. Josef Frey who disclosed that the illumination was part of a manuscript written by a second person named Diebold Schilling, nephew of the elder Diebold Schilling who had penned the Spiezer Chronik.

The second view is from the Luzerner Chronik, completed in 1513, and is a chronicle of the affairs of Luzerne and the surrounding territories at that time. The scene is not as complete as the Spiezer mint, and only shows one corner of the minting house. Emphasis here is more of a social commentary in which the artist is simply saying, "Here is my patron's private mint."

The beater at left is flattening the long strips of metal from which the coin planchets are to be cut. Beside him sits the striker amid his dies and unfinished coins, unceremoniously banging away at the little round discs and bringing them to life as coins.

Indeed, suddenly the entire medieval mint came alive for me as scene after scene passed into view. Burgkmair, Holinshed, the Schillings, even those anonymous engravers who copied the earlier artists, captured with knife and paint brush and engraving tool all the drama of the medieval mint as they saw it. In a quaint panorama of line and color, the mint took shape and began to have a greater meaning of its own.

At the same time, each scene possessed something of a pitiful quality that still escapes definition. The nameless peasants that straddled those round tree stumps and flogged their lives away are lost to the world and have passed without identity or reward. Their creations are now spread across the face of the earth, and we numismatists who remark upon their handiwork are too far removed to appreciate how desperately they must have labored under the yoke of medieval ignorance.

The strikers and beaters and trimmers remain for us only faces lost in the mist of time. The designers and overseers were doomed to the same fate. Reflecting upon these pictures, I have often wondered what it must have been like to toil hour after hour, month after month, seeing the little piles of coins grow into basketsful, only to be whisked away for use in some other place.

Soon after I had digested the contents of these two paintings, compared them and scrutinized the face of each, I happened upon an article written in Coin Galleries which pictured an unusual stained glass window depicting the minting process in the Swiss-Austrian region of Europe. Could it be possible that a colored view of the window was obtainable? After some time, I learned the view could be purchased as an ektachrome transparency from the Munzskabinett, Staatliche Museen Zu Berlin. Further arrangements made with Prof. Dr. A. Sühle at the Mint Cabinet resulted in a 5 x 7 transparency of the entire window. It was magnificent; little panes from the past that spelled out in diminutive artwork the process for making coins in the sixteenth century. The stained window was created in 1565 at the mint in Schaffhausen, in northern Switzerland. The accompanying chart explains the separate panes in detail, and is taken from the Mint Superintendent's report at the time the window was produced.

The producers of the window, having eight subjects and nine glass panes to fill, used the one extra space by inserting the Biblical event of Christ meeting the Samaritan woman at the well. The Scriptural passage is from John 4:13, 14- "Jesus answered and said unto her, Whosoever drinketh of this water shall thirst again: But whosoever drinketh of the water that I shall give him shall never thirst; but the water that I shall give him shall be in him a well of water springing up into everlasting life."

The window scenes refer to a process by which the bars that coin blanks were cut from were cast into squares in sand molds. The planchets were rounded by cutting and beating in the angles. Coins were then struck in the usual manner after the blanks had been bleached.

Another mint scene, Figure 13, from a somewhat later period depicts a German mint at full production. The scene was provided by the agency of Inter Nationes in Bonn to whom I had written on advice of the German Tourist Information Office in Chicago. The print comes from a book entitled Etwas Fur Alle written by Christopher Weigel at

Wurzburg in 1699. Emphasis in this view is upon the coin striker in the foreground. Behind him can be seen the "sizers" and other workers attending the large furnace. The room itself is considerably larger than any other uncovered in the literature.

The pictures offered in these pages are yardsticks by which we can measure, feebly at best, the medieval mint as it must have appeared in reality to all those inhabitants of medieval cities and towns. Hot, stuffy, rude rooms where the floors were littered with scraps of trimmings and broken coins have been swept clean in these frail scenes created by nomadic artists. Within a short hundred years, the medieval mint would fade away, and the hammer with its indelicate ringing would fall before the onslaught of the mechanical screw press.

1. Stretching the mold.	2. Adjusting.	3. Stamping the coin.
4. Taking the mold apart.	5. It takes three mount.	6. times to it:
7. Pouring metal into the mold.	8. Christ and the Samaritan woman.	9. Bleaching and drying.

These pictures represent the dying gasp of the coin makers of the middle ages who created their dies and designs with the hapless indecision of the unconcerned creator. We modern numismatists owe a great debt to those medieval artists who took the time from their busy lives to hurriedly sketch scenes from their shallow vantage points. Had it not been for their small efforts, we might not "see" the minting house of the middle ages, and our own efforts at understanding would be chained to the lifeless descriptions of writers. But no writer could ever equal the sharp knife of Hans Burgkmair or the deft brush strokes from the Spiezer Chronik.

The heritage of the numismatist is found not only in coins, but in the total parade of history where coinage meets and fuses with all of man's other endeavors. Art, literature, economics, all come together in the crucible of mankind's genius where, mixed carefully with coins, they become man's own past experience. From such an impatient crucible come the cries of progress. The past whispers - in a woodcut, or a painting - and the modern numismatist listens. Without those little whispered funds of knowledge, the coins are worthless.

ANA Convention Program Available

The official program was one of the features of the ANA's 76th anniversary convention, held August 8-12, at the Americana Hotel at Miami Beach.

General chairman, Sidney W. Smith, stated that the program represents a departure from previous issues in several areas:

A strong effort to hint at various phases of Florida living are reflected both in the cover and editorial content. Numismatics is traced through 400 years, as are Florida's history, its fountain of tourists pleasures (missed by Ponce de Leon) and its native "live" industries.

Five articles by respected author-numismatists are to be found in this in-depth pursuit of Florida numismatics. Harley L. Freeman, has contributed wrap-up articles on, What Florida Offers the Numismatist, Florida Tokens, and Florida Currency.

Col. Rolfe R. Holbrook, covers the only known state medals in his article, State of Florida National Guard Medals, a penetrating, authoritative text on this phase of collecting in the sunshine state.

Lou Montesi, tells you that while the state is old, numismatically, it is new as tomorrow insofar as putting the facts all the together is concerned. His Florida's Greatest Numismatic Adventure, may truly put your mind to work.

The program - reference slanted - houses material unavailable elsewhere. It represents reliable source data on what is available, in Florida, to any numismatist.

The 62-photo montage on the front covers is detailed, through numbered keys, on the inside front cover and is done conducted tour style. Material shown includes a panoply ranging from store cards, Pirate silver, French ecus, depression scrip, uncut sheets, Pillar and Bust dollars, a pin, medals, company store money, National bank notes and mint-traced doubloons, the "Florida" Plantations token, anniversary medals and medalets to the ANA 1967 official medal.

The 1967 program is an expanded issue of 40 inside pages and the four covers.

It is priced at $1.00, plus 20¢ handling (Fla. residents add 3¢ state tax). Those who were unable to make the ANA convention are invited to write Sidney W. Smith, 2510 Biscayne Boulevard, Miami, Fla. 33137, for a copy.

Let's Take A Tour

Denver's top tourist attraction is the United States Mint at Delaware and West Colfax avenues, some 2,600 visitors per day view the coinage operations of the world's most mint. This is a tour that is recommended for every collector, whether you collect U.S. or foreign, tokens or medals. Naturally, it is a guided tour and the guides are experienced mint employees. They can answer most of the questions put forth to them by the inquiring mind of a coin collector.

At present, tours are conducted Monday through Friday, excluding holidays; hours are 8 to 11 a.m. and 12:30 to 3 p.m. The tour is conducted on a catwalk above the actual minting facilities and the visitor follows the manufacture of coins from the make-up to the melting and rolling of ingots; from the stamping of blanks to the actual coining and then to the weighing and counting. You see pretty much the entire operation.

Each visitor receives a printed "facts and figures" sheet concerning the United States Mint at Denver. The reverse of this sheet has a sketch showing the complete operations in coinage manufacturing and showing each weighing step between the different processes.

At the Denver Mint the visitor may also view a display of gold bars with an approximate value of over $1 million. The average gold bar on display weighs approximately 35 pounds and is valued at $14,000 each.

The mint advises that it is not in the banking business - newly minted coins can be released only to Federal Reserve Banks. Likewise, Federal Reserve Banks do not deal with the public, they deal solely with their member banks. The only coins sold at the Denver Mint are those which go into Special Mint Sets - which, starting in 1965, were (and will continue to be) struck and packaged at the United States Assay Office in San Francisco. The 1965 and 1966 are now being sold here at the Cashier's window for $4.00 per set. Mail orders to the Denver Mint are not being accepted, you must order in person.

If you are travelling Denver way, make it a point to stop and visit the mint. You may have to wait in line for a short period but the inconvenience is well worth it. If you cannot visit the mint request that your club secretary write the Audio-Visual Library, ANA, P.O. Box 2366, Colorado Springs, Colo. 80901, and schedule the showing of the film, A Trip Thru the Denver Mint for your group.

Visitors queue to tour the Denver Mint, the average wait is about twenty minutes as some 2300 tourist and collectors visit Denver's leading tour spot daily. Vendors ply their trade selling official and unofficial mint sets, and related numismatic items to those waiting who often pay more than they can buy the same sets inside the mint for.

Replacement (Star) Notes Used In Connection With Issuance Of U. S. Paper Currency

by William A. Philpott, Jr., ANA 1978

Consultant: Texas Bankers Association

Each piece of United States paper currency, issued by our government since 1861, except the postage and fractional series, bears an identification mark - namely, a serial number. This is an overprinted set of digits, placed on each note, during its final run through the presses.

The Bureau of Engraving and Printing, Washington, D.C., where U.S. currency has been produced since the early 1860s exercises great care never to issue a defective note - or, at least, as few imperfect ones as are humanly and mechanically possible.

Inspectors have the eagle's eye, indeed. Only an infinitesimal number of defective specimens escape them, in comparison with the vast quantity of perfect notes produced. When spoilage occurs - an inky-thumb smudge, machinery irregularities, and many other printery mishaps - the government authorities discover, discard, and destroy such imperfections.

Prior to 1910 the Bureau of Engraving and Printing replaced defective notes with substitutes, specially numbered to match serials of spoilage specimens, thus preserving the number-sequence of the finished product. The treasurer, when confronted with defective currency, replaced it from a reserve stock of notes, without regard to serial sequences. Thus, this substitution operation was a bother, a duplication of effort, and a plague to both the treasurer and the bureau director, not to mention the confusion for the register, who recorded, by number, all notes issued, and for the folks of the Redemption Department, who redeemed all circulated notes when presented.

This routine of spoilage and replacement, so bothersome through the years, was changed in 1910. Lee McClung was treasurer; William T. Vernon was register of the Treasury; and J. T. Ralph was director of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing. Credit for devising the "star" or replacement note, must be given to these three men.

On April 14, 1910, bureau director Ralph wrote Treasurer McClung a letter. Among other items, Ralph suggested that "the Bureau be authorized to prepare a stock of notes, numbered in sequence...distinguished from all other notes by a special letter or character printed before and/or after the serial number...that these notes be substituted in place of any defective specimens...a notation being made on a package of currency, indicating that said package contained such substituted note or notes."

Director Ralph further asked "your early attention to this subject, since it is of greatest importance" that a schedule be undertaken, for the remainder of the year. Four days later, April 18, 1910, the treasurer gave the green light for replacement notes to be produced.

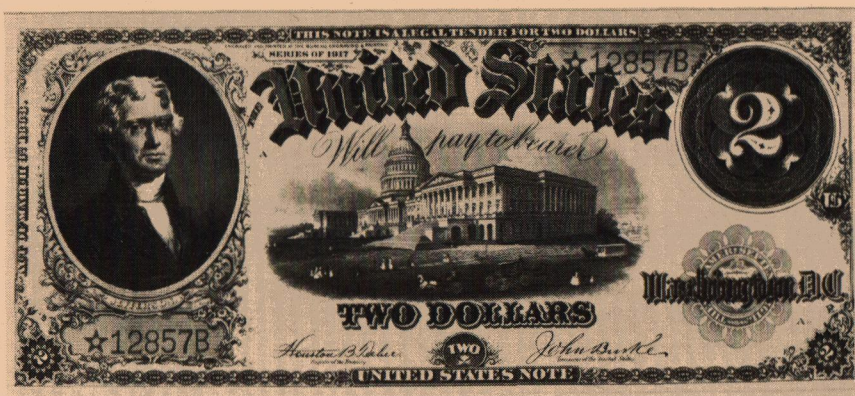

The bureau director anticipated a

The first replacement notes were issued in June 1910, for the Silver Certificates, series 1899. Here is a $5 "One-a-Papa" note, with earliest possible signature for the star notes: Vernon and McClung.

$1 Silver Certificates, bearing the prefix star included the "Spread Eagle" ones, series of 1899, and the series of 1923 — the above being the Woods-White signature.

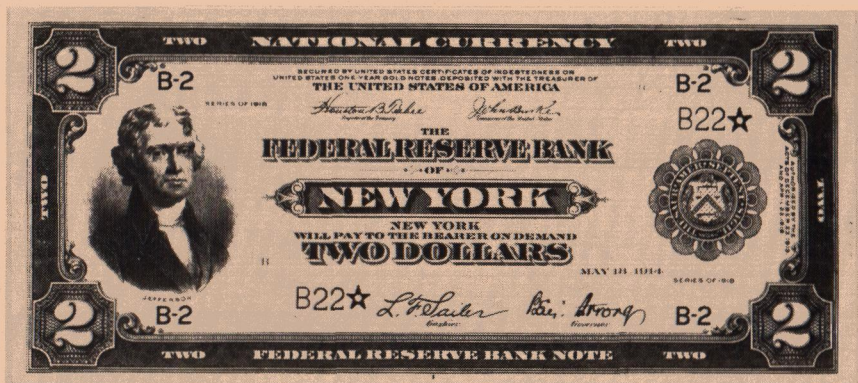

The Legal Tenders, all denominations, bore the prefix symbol, on all signatures Vernon-McClung through Woods-White. Shown above is a $2 Legal, series 1917, Teebee-Burke combination.

A nice prefix star shown on a brilliant "Buffalo Note," $10 Legal, series of 1901, Elliott-White signatures.

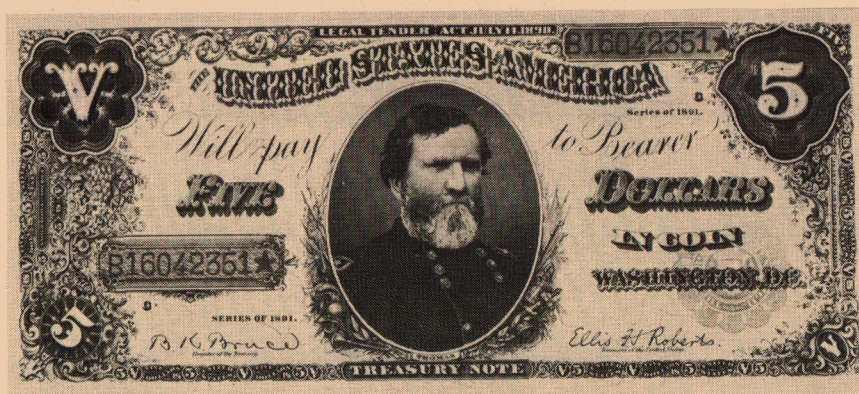

In the Federal Reserve series the stars are suffixed to the serial, because the prefix position must (by law) show the district letter of the issuing bank. Herewith is a $10 Federal Reserve note, Atlanta Bank (F). Only three digits to the serial, and no preceding zeroes. (No prefixing zeroes on serials until the small size notes in 1928.)

Federal Reserve Bank note, New York Bank, shows the suffix star, and a two digit serial. This series of 1918 comes in $1's and $2's from each of the twelve banks.

Number 7 is a Treasury or legal tender note, series of 1869. All denominations of the 1869 series, Legals, show this solid, suffixed star ($1 to $1000).

Number 8 shows a Treasury or Coin note. Series 1890-1891, denominations $1 to $1000 — all have a uniform solid star suffix.

These notes show suffix stars on the serial, but are not replacement notes. The symbol is a "solid star," merely a printer's embellishment, while the replacement stars are "hollowed-out" symbols. Uninformed catalogues in the past have referred to these solid, suffix stars, as "star notes." They are not.

"yes" answer from McClung. On April 17, 1910, Director Ralph sent a "rush order" to the American Numbering Company, Brooklyn, N.Y., specifying "eight (8) stars, for use on automatic numbering blocks - of size and style as indicated by copy herewith,...to be mounted on the same size and style of shank...as in the sample letter herewith...in order that they may be interchangeable with similar letters and characters now in use here."

Evidently the "stars" arrived promptly and the bureau was able to deliver to the treasurer the first substitute notes at the approximate deadline. Eight numbering blocks (enough for two of the four-subject sheets at one time) were not many, but the first "package" of replacements (star) notes reached Treasurer McClung on July 12, 1910. The bureau had finished them June 20, 1910. They were a package of 100, $1 silver certificates, series of 1899, spread eagle on the obverse. Those first substitute notes bore the signatures of Vernon and McClung, and were numbered Star 75612001A through Star 75612100A. (In those days prefixed zeros were not used as has been the case with current, small size notes - otherwise that first package of $1 silver certificates replacement notes could have been numbered Star00000001A through Star 0000100A!)

So, the earliest "star" notes possible to find are those of 1910, with the Vernon-McClung signature combination. During the last half of 1910, replacement notes, bearing the "star" prefix to the serial numbers, were produced for the silver certificates series of 1899, including the three denominations: $1, spread eagle over heads of Lincoln and Grant; $2, head of Washington between figures of Mechanics and Agriculture; and $5, head of a Sioux Indian chief, One-a-papa.

Legal tender "stars" of the Vernon-McClung signatures appeared early in 1911 on the $5 Pioneer Family (wood chopper). Legals, $1 and $2 denominations, had no replacement "stars" until series of 1917, signatures Tehee-Burke and subsequent signatures. The $1, silver certificates, series of 1923, had "stars." The rather rare $10 legal tender, Friedberg 123, series 1923, could have had replacement stars. But the issue was small, and extensive spoilage unlikely. I never saw a star of Fr. 123.

The $20 legal tender, series 1880, has a Vernon-McClung, Fr. 145, which could have had a prefix star. I never saw one, and I doubt if a "star" on the series of 1880, any note, was ever made. The same thing applies to Fr. 182, $100 Legal, series 1880, which has the Napier-McClung combination. Facts are, spoilage was not so great on larger denominations.

The popular $10 legal tender Buffalo note had stars on its Friedberg numbers

Here are shown the two varieties of stars used on small sized notes: the solid star, series 1928 through 1934 series; and the asterisk-like star (smaller and punctured) since the 1934 series.

Shown are two different stars, prefixing the silver certificates, $5 of series 1934-A and 1953-A.

117 to 122, inclusive.

Prefix "stars" on gold certificates, $10 and $20 were plentiful: Fr. 1168 including 1172, and Fr. 1182, including 1186. Also, Gold Certificates, series of 1922, had stars for $10's, $20's, $50's and $100's...stars on these notes appeared late in 1922. There were $500 and $1000 Gold Certificates issued, series 1922. Chances are, greatest care was taken in producing these - and there was little or no spoilage. For what it is worth, I have never seen a "star" of these higher denominations - in fact, I have seen few $500 and $1000 gold certificates, period.

In the National Bank note series, large or small size, replacement notes have never been produced. The quantities for each bank were comparatively small, and new notes with identical numbering, when spoilage occurred, were the easiest remedy.

Factually, the Federal Reserve Bank notes, both large and small size, are labelled "National Currency" and have the same status with the Treasury Department as currency issued by individual national banks. Star notes (the star is in the suffix position, because the district letter must be prefixed to the serial) are common in the large size, series 1918, $1 and $2 denominations.

Of the small size Federal Reserve Bank notes, series 1929, there were not too many replacement "stars." I have seen several $20's on the banks with the larger circulations (the A, B, C, and H banks, for instance).

There are stars aplenty on notes that are not substitute or replacement items. The legal tenders, series 1869: $1, $2, $5, $10, $20, $50, $100, $500, and $1000 (blue end, safety paper), have a star as the suffix of the serial number. It is a solid star, about the size of the replacement note's star, and is a print-shop embellishment to the serial number. The same is true of all treasury or coin notes: Friedberg's 347, including 379-d. But all these suffix stars are "solid," while replacement notes have prefix and suffix stars, "with hollow center." Many times cataloguers and dealers, who should know better, list Legal Tenders of 1869, and the Coin Notes as "Star Notes," meaning replacement currency.

Here are the suffix stars — both solid and asterisk-like — on the Federal Reserve Notes. These stars suffix the serial, since on Federal Reserve notes the prefix position is always reserved for the District letter of the issuing Bank.

Replacement notes in small size currency (legals, silvers and gold certificates) are regular and easily understood. Star specimens have thus been used on all small size notes, except national bank notes, series 1929. On the early series, 1928 through the 1934s, the "stars" are solid. When the over-printed serial numbers were reduced slightly at the end of the 1934 series, the stars became a small "asterisk-like" symbol. These were first used on $1 silver certificates, series 1935; $5 and $10 silver certificates, series 1953; $2 and $5 U.S. notes, series 1953; and $5, $10, $20, $50 and $100 Federal Reserve notes, series 1950. All subsequent series of these denominations and classes have "asterisk" stars.

Star replacements for $500 and $1000 Federal Reserve notes were not produced until May 31, 1941, which it is presumed would be solid "stars" until the latest series. Anyway, who cares about "stars" on $1000 notes?

An attempt to appraise star notes, and set values, as compared to regular issues, has never been made. Here are my estimates, based upon the handling and examination of many thousands of paper currency specimens. The presumption is that the notes being appraised are in a strictly new and perfect state of condition.

Large size notes, silver certificates, series 1899, all three denominations, star notes are 100 times as scarce - so at least ten times catalogue of regular serials should be reasonable. The earlier signature combinations should bring more than, say, Elliott-Burke or Speelman-White (series 1917).

Stars in legal tenders are a bit more plentiful in the $1, $2, and $5 - say, seven times as scarce as the regular issues.

In the Federal Reserve notes, blue seal, series 1914, all lower denominations, the value should be five times that of regular notes. Federal Reserve Bank Notes, series 1918, have "star" replacements only on $1 and $2 denominations. These should be ten to fifteen-fold higher. These Federal Reserve "star" replacements show symbol (star) as a suffix to the serial. There may be star notes for the red seal Federal Reserve notes, series 1914, but I have never seen or heard of one.

As to the substitute notes, small size currency, they are so numerous, anyone's guess, probably, is as good as mine, as to their comparative value to regular notes.

In the early 1950s, the Bureau acquired and installed high-speed, sheet-fed rotary presses. Anticipating high spoilage during the first months of operation of this new equipment, the greatest number ever of replacements was produced, particularly for the $1 silver certificates. The "big spoilage" did not develop, so the Bureau found itself 'overstocked.'

Accordingly, $1 silvers, bearing the asterisk replacement symbol, were put in circulation in packages of one hundred, consecutively numbered. A great number of these, particularly the Anderson notes, series 1957, were issued. When spoilage was encountered in these bundles, other stars were added at the end of the package, to fill in the count.

Since I have never "run a temperature" over the small size notes, I do not know too much about scarcity of "stars." I would venture, however, that star notes in the following seven small size notes are excessively rare and hard to come by:

Fr. 1500, $1, legal tender, series 1928.

Fr. 1503, $2, legal tender, series 1928-B.

Fr. 1526, $5, legal tender, series 1928-A.

Fr. 1605, $1, silver certificate, series 1928-E.

Fr. 1700, $10, silver certificate, series 1933.

Fr. 1703, $10, silver certificate, series 1934-B.

Fr. 2308, $10, North Africa, silver certificate, series 1934.

H. J. Holtzclaw, for many years the able director of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, reports proudly that spoilage in currency production is at a new all-time low - just under 8%. No comparable printing establishment can look on this figure without surprise and envy. Since 1951 the Bureau has registered annual savings of more than $17 million. Technological improvements and refining processes have reduced cost of producing 1000 notes from $19 to less than $9. Recently acquired high-speed, sheet-fed rotary presses have helped to cut cost of production, and continued refinements in processing operations will increase further savings in the making of our folding money, is the prediction of Director Holtzclaw.

Since 1850, 228 countries have issued about 8,000 different coins in all materials including nickel and cupro-nickel. Of these, 166 countries have minted 1,154 different coins in pure or cupro-nickel (not including coins with less than 25% nickel).

New Zealand Decimal Bank Notes

Mary C. Hercus, Information Officer, New Zealand Embassy

Native birds and flora are the dominant features of the reverse designs of New Zealand's notes which came into use on July 10.

A well-kept secret, they were the work of three New Zealanders, Dr. H. A. McIntock, parliamentary historian and a leading etcher; the director of the National Art Gallery, Mr. S. A. Maclellan, a renowned water-colorist; and the dean of the faculty of Fine Arts at Canterbury University, Prof. H. J. Simpson, who have been working on the designs with representatives of the Reserve Bank and of the leading London printing firm, Thomas de la Rue and Company, since July 1964. The reserve Bank decided on the size and colors for the notes and that they should contain birds. The rest was up to the designers who had the problem of choosing birds which lent themselves to the colors earlier selected. The basic inspiration was drawn from the 1888 edition of Sir William Buller's "Birds of New Zealand" and the panel consulted botanical experts about the flowers.

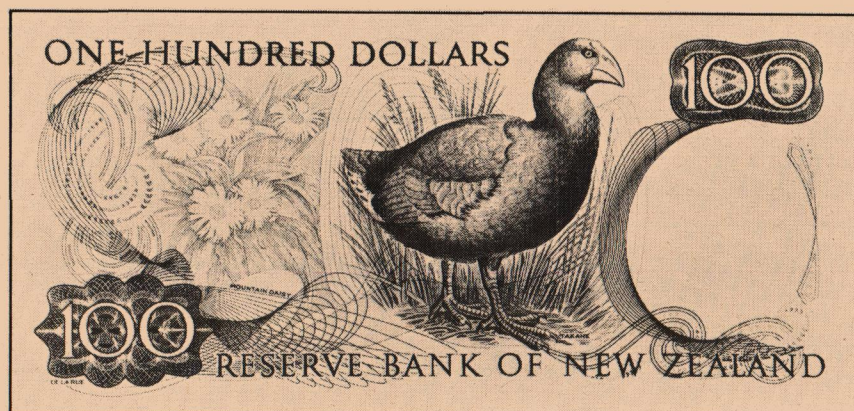

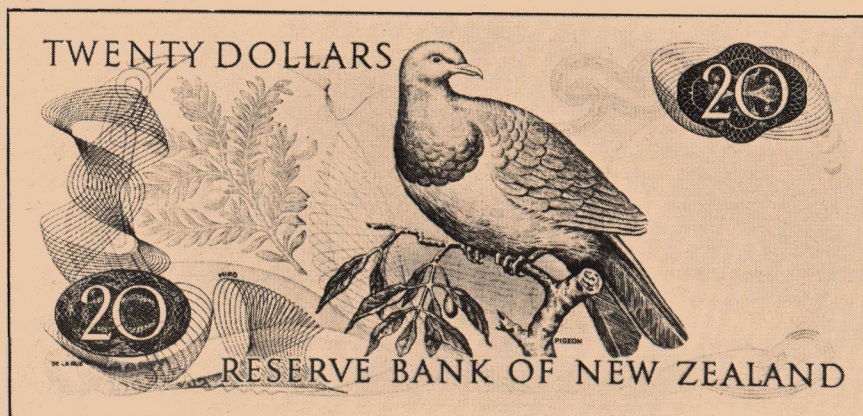

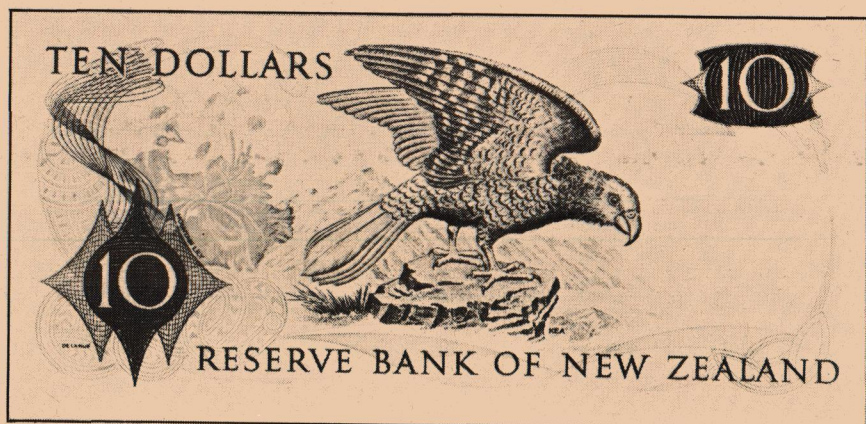

Great care was taken in the design of the notes and protective measures against forgery were skillfully incorporated into the designs. One problem which required great attention was the danger of the designs on one side showing through to disfigure the Queen's face on the opposite side. A portrait of her Majesty the Queen by Anthony Buckley, a well-known London photographer, was used as a base for the engraving.

A special paper was used for all notes and in addition each has a window water mark panel of Captain Cook. There are different intricate geometrical patterns in the design of each note, as well as differing Maori motifs. The values are shown in the top left and bottom right corners of the face of each note, with the serial number opposite the values. Each note carries the words "This note is legal tender for...", and carries a facsimile of the signature of the chief cashier, Mr. R. N. Fleming. This is the third note issue made by the New Zealand Reserve Bank, previous issues having been made in 1934 and 1940.

The new notes are smaller than the L.s.d., notes which they superceded, but are similar in color to their equivalent values. The new five dollar note is bright orange. No dollar sign is shown on any of the notes as this was considered unnecessary.

The basic designs of the reverse sides of each note are:—

$1.00 The New Zealand fantail and clematis—This note is brown in color, and 5.5" x 2.76". The fantail is known all over New Zealand. It is usually pied black and white in color and is characterized by its long fan-shaped tail which enables it to twist and turn quickly when in pursuit of its diet of small flying insects. The starry blossoms of the climbing clematis vine are found throughout the New Zealand bush and forests as well as in suburban gardens.

$2.00 The rifleman and mistletoe—A mauve note, 5.7" x 2.85". The rifleman, the tiniest of the New Zealand native birds, takes its name from the fancied resemblance of its plumage to the uniform of an early colonial regiment. The parasitic shrub, mistletoe is found throughout New Zealand and blooms in the summer months of January and February.

$5.00 The tui and the kowhai—This new value note, 5.9" x 2.95" is a bright orange. The native tui, the parson bird, is a honey eater with a beautiful bell-like song and lustrous black plumage. It frequents kowhai trees, one of the earliest spring flowers distinctive for their large nectar filled blossoms.

$10.00 The kea and mountain lily—A blue note, 6.1" x 3.05". The olive green kea, or mountain parrot, lives in mountainous country and has a keen eye for bright objects as well as an uncanny intelligence and mischievous playfulness. The mountain lily is actually a member of the buttercup family, and its beautiful waxy white flowers are found in New Zealand alpine areas.

$20.00 The native pigeon and miro berry. This 6.3" x 3.15" note is green in color. The native pigeon known for its size, brilliant plumage and strength of flight is one of the most magnificent of all pigeons. It will fly considerable distances to find one of its favourite foods, the berries of the large miro tree, which turn from yellow to bright red when ripe.

$100.00 The takahe and mountain daisy. A crimson note, 6.3" x 3.15". The takahe, a rare gaudy blue flightless bird, was thought to be extinct until a small colony was discovered in the southwest of the South Island in 1948. That area has now been declared a sanctuary. The beautiful white flowered mountain daisy is found on the high mountain slopes of both islands, and as many as fifty blossoms can be found on a single small plant.

Additional Terms Standardized

The following words and phrases were defined at two recent meetings by two separate groups of the Numismatic Terms Standardization committee members. The first set of agreed terms was published in the June edition, page 724.

Ancient Coin—Generally any coin issued before 500 A.D.

Authorized (Issue)—An issue by a governmental authority, or by civilian or military personnel in control of an area.

Bungtown—A name given to imitations of British half pence, which were produced and circulated in America during the period 1784-1789, often being antedated.

Commemorative—A piece issued to mark, honor, or observe an event, place or person, and to preserve its memory.

Copper coin—A coin containing over 95% pure copper. Copper alloys of less than 95% copper are usually bronze or brass.

Crown—Basically the English Five shilling piece, but recently a generalization for all coins from 33 to 43 M.M. in size.

FEATURING FAKES

VIRGIL HANCOCK, ANA 43616

© 1967 by Virgil Hancock

Be warned of a "1 WARN" of Korea!

You see, above, a silver, die-struck counterfeit of the pattern for the "dollar" of the 495th year of the founding of Korea as a nation, a "dollar" (Jacobs-Vermeule No. AA-101) which never went into production. J-V calls the genuine pattern aluminum-alloy, Alan Craig refers to it as tin. Whatever the alloy, Cornelius Vermeule reports an original pattern in a private collection in Japan over twenty years ago, which I'm trying to locate.

This silver, die-stuck counterfeit measures 38.3mm, 2.5mm edge, 26.69 grams. Note particularly the odd, hand-engraved "N" and uneven alignment of the letters in WARN. In the "900" note the difference in the two 0's, hand-engraved into the die instead of being punched. On this counterfeit's reverse, note the royal seal at the top, in which the horizontal shading lines are not straight, but are crooked, broken. There have been different counterfeit dies, and Alan Craig on Page 82, November 25, 1964 Coin World, lists other tell-tale errors made by engravers of the counterfeits.

Below is a cast silver counterfeit of a die-stuck counterfeit... a fake of fake... of the silver pattern of 497th year "dollar" (J-V AA-102, Shih K-1-4), which never went into production. This cast fake is 37.7mm, 2.9mm edge, 26.75 grams. Here again there's a difference in the two 0's of "900" and irregular shading lines in the royal seal atop the reverse.

Counterfeits also exist of patterns for minor coinage of 495th and 497th years.

New and Recent Issues

by Ernest Kraus, LM 129

It is the important duty of The Numismatist to record and illustrate new coins. To accomplish this, members in the United States and abroad are invited to submit new issues to Ernst Kraus, Room 939 (include room number in address), 393 Seventh Ave., New York, N. Y. 10001. Coins will be photographed and returned as soon as possible, and a credit line will be given to anyone assisting.

Germany (Eastern Zone)

Since World War II Germany has been a divided nation, there is the democratic republic known as West Germany, a free nation with free elections, and East Germany, a communist dictatorship controlled by Russia. The official name of East Germany is Deutsche Demokratische Republik (German Democratic Republic), a very tongue-in-cheek title since the country is neither a true republic nor very democratic.

Following are two commemorative coins issued late last year and recently placed into circulation:

below; legend around, DEUTSCHE DEMOKRATISCHE REPUBLIK. The lettered edge has the value and the name of the Central Bank of East Germany, 10 MDN DER DEUTSCHEN NOTENBANK. .800 fine silver, 31mm. The coin commemorates the 125th anniversary of the death of Karl Friedrich Schinkel, a famous German architect.

20 mark, 1966. Silver. Obverse: portrait to right; dates below, 1646-1716; legend around, GOTTFRIED WILHELM LEIBNIZ. Reverse: similar to above except for value. The lettered edge is also similar except for value. .800 fine silver, 33mm. This coin commemorates the 250th anniversary of the death of G. W. Leibniz, a great German philosopher and physicist. West Germany also honored him with a 5 mark silver coin.

Lesotho

It is interesting to consider why Lesotho, formerly Basutoland, an enclave in the Republic of South Africa about the size of Belgium, never became absorbed into the Republic of South Africa. The Basuto as a nation did not come into prominence until 1818 when a minor chief, Moshesh, gathered together the remnants of the various clans being scattered by the raids of the Zulu and Matabele and brought a single Basuto nation into being.

Threatened by the Boers of the Great Trek, men who coveted the land but refused to accept his authority, Moshesh sought the protection of the British government then acting as the "Great Protector" for the whole world. In 1868 this protection was afforded but after Moshesh died in 1870 the country was annexed by the Cape Colony.

This rule was unsuccessful and in 1884 Basutoland once again came under direct control by the Imperial government. In 1908 the four provinces of the Cape Colony came together to discuss the possibility of union, the Basuto chiefs sent a deputation to England asking that Basutoland not be incorporated in any union. When the Union of South Africa was established the little country was accordingly retained as a British colony. The departure of South Africa from the British Commonwealth in 1961 raised again Basutoland's position vis-a-vis the Republic, but in 1962 it was announced that South Africa did not aspire to incorporate the small country.

In October 1966, Basutoland lowered the Union Jack and raised the flag of Lesotho, another in the growing list of African nations.

Liberia

Liberia was the answer to the American Colonization Society's program of what to do with liberated slaves from the United States. It was founded by them in 1822 making it the oldest Negro republic in Africa and the second oldest in the world. It was preceded only by Haiti. Forty-three thousand square miles in size it lies on the southern edge of Africa's great western bulge. The native language is English and Liberia has a ruling class of about 15,000 to 20,000 Americo-Liberians, or colored persons descended from the first settlers. Total population slightly exceeds one million persons.

There 1966 issue of coins was struck at the Swiss Federal Mint in Bern.

10 cents, 1966. Copper-nickel. Obverse: head of Liberty to left; star below; legend around, REPUBLIC OF LIBERIA. Reverse: value and date within wreath. Reeded edge. 17mm.

25 cents, 1966. Copper-nickel. Similar to above except for size and value. 23mm.

50 cents, 1966. Copper-nickel. Similar to above except for size and value. 29mm.

1 dollar, 1966. Copper-nickel. Similar to above except for size and value. 34mm.

Malaysia

Malaysia is a federation formed when Malaya, Singapore and the British protectorates of Sarawak and Sabah united in 1963. Singapore later broke or was excluded from the federation in 1965. The country is governed by a prime minister and parliament, yet it has a "supreme head of state" who rules in title only. Sultans from the various 13 states of Malaysia take turns in filling the office.

Released simultaneously with the new issue of coins described below was the following note issue by the Bank Negara: 1 dollar, blue; 5 dollars, green; 10 dollars, red; 50 dollars, blue and grey; and 100 dollars, violet. Appearing on Malaysian papermoney for the first time is the portrait of the first king, Yang di-Perutan Agong.

5 sen, 1967. Copper-nickel. Obverse: parliament house in Kuala Lumpur, the capital; at right the coat-of-arms, a crescent and a 13-pointed star representing the 13 states of the federation. Reverse: large numeral 5 in center for value; SEN and 1967 below; legend at top, MALAYSIA; on both sides of the value are hibiscus, the national flower. Reeded edge.

Also issued with similar design were: 1 sen in bronze, 10, 20 and 50 sen, copper-nickel. Their planchets are in corresponding size and composition to the coins of former Malaya and British Borneo.

New Zealand

On July 10, 1967, New Zealand followed the lead of neighboring Australia in changing to a decimal coinage. Souvenir sets of the new coins were prepared and offered to collectors in two types, standard specimen and uncirculated.

The standard specimen sets were struck from polished blanks with specially prepared dies. The coins are removed from the presses by gloved hands and inspected individually. 50,000 sets are scheduled to be made.

An additional 250,000 sets will be made and classified as uncirculated. These will be above average quality due to sealing at the mint. Each set will include seven coins - 1, 2, 5, 10, 20 and 50 cent circulating coins and a commemorative dollar. The coins are sealed in clear plastic partitioned envelopes at the Royal Mint and mounted in a descriptive folder.

The government will also be offering for sale to collectors 200,000 uncirculated dollars separately and these will be mounted in clear plastic cases with a Royal Blue surround, suitably engraved in silver. Further information on the issues and prices may be obtained by airwriting: The Treasury, Private Bag, Lambton Quay, Wellington, New Zealand.

2 cents, 1967. Bronze. Obverse: similar to above. Reverse: two golden Kowhaiflowers and leaves surrounding figure 2. Plain edge. 21mm.

5 cents, 1967. Copper-nickel. Obverse: similar to above. Reverse: a tuatara, native lizard, curled on a rock with figure 5 superimposed. Reeded edge 19mm.

1 dollar, 1967. Copper-nickel. Obverse: similar to above. Reverse: crowned arms, value below; all within two large fern fronds; a wave pattern ap-appears around the periphery of the coin. Incuse inscription around edge, DECIMAL CURRENCY INTRODUCED JULY 10, 1967. 39mm.

William Gardner designed the reverse of the dollar; James Berry all other reverses. The current dollar has the equal value of 10 shillings of the old currency.

South Africa

In September 1966, Prime Minister Hendrik F. Verwoerd was assassinated during a session of parliament by a parliamentary messenger. Earlier in the year he had won his third term on a policy of apartheid or strict racial segregation, a policy that had already brought sanctions imposed by the United Nations General Assembly. His assassination only served to press apartheid further and make Verwoerd a martyr in the eyes of Nationalists supporters, thus this coinage issue bearing his portrait.

1 rand, 1967. Silver. Obverse: same as above except country name in Afrikaans, SUID AFRIKA. Reverse: same as above.

Struck at the Pretoria Mint, 1 million pieces will be struck with the English legend, 1 million in Afrikaans.

For the Junior

Meet young Gary Drachenberg of Raymond, Texas, winner of the 1967 ANA Junior Literary Award. A collector since 1960, Gary will be a junior next year at Raymondville (Tex.) High School. As an inspiration and for the enjoyment of other junior collectors, his prize-winning literary achievement is published here for the first time.

Bearded Rulers of History . . . Portrayed on Coins

I became interested in topical coin collecting recently, I wished to collect something 'different.' I had tired of collecting coins that all looked alike, trying to fill holes in coin albums that were hard to find, some of which I would never be able to complete. I decided to switch to coins of the world. My next problem was what topic did I want to specialize in? I decided to collect coins with Bearded Men on them. Then, after noticing that I had coins with rulers, explorers, artists, philosophers, famous navigators and others on them, I thought I had better narrow it down a little more; so I decided to only select Bearded Rulers of History to put in my exhibit.

I began disposing of coins I had in my old collection; then buying or trading for ones from around the world, that depicted a ruler, such as kings, emperors and presidents. I found these were more challenging to attribute, as well as educational when I began reading about them. I learned more World History when I began doing research in various books and encyclopedias, than

I had ever absorbed in history class! It is really a challenge for a junior coin collector to collect topically; you have to read a lot to learn about your coins. You enjoy them much more when you know about their origin, the history connected with the subject depicted on them, etc. You learn about history, science, art, geography and many more things when you study your coins.

I will attempt to tell you a little about my exhibit and describe it briefly. The center of my case has a jeweled crown of gold on a royal purple background. The crown is gold and red, the 'jewels' came out of old jewelry my Mother gave me to work with. My title is gold-lettered in a separate frame on a royal purple background with a likeness of a Bearded Ruler on a throne in the center. This frame stands directly behind the other case which lies flat. I next selected thirteen coins to display in the flat case; I had more coins than this, but had to narrow them down to fit in the case I was using. I will tell you a little of these thirteen coins and some of the history I learned while reading about them.

I have an Italy 1894-R 10 centesimi in my exhibit. This coin is a scarce date copper coin minted in Rome with the likeness of Umberto the First on the obverse. He was born in Turin, Italy in 1844. He succeeded to the throne in 1878 and was called "Humbert the Good" because of his courage and generosity. He was assassinated in 1900.

I also have a 5 peso from Mexico dated 1959 with a likeness of Venustiano Carranza on it. It is a large crown-size .720 silver coin and is popular with crown collectors. Carranza was born in 1859. The coin commemorates the 100th anniversary of his birth. He was President of Mexico from 1917 to 1920. He was murdered in 1920.

Next, I have a 20 reis from Brazil dated 1869. This is a copper coin with Petrus II on the obverse. He lived from 1825 to 1891. He ruled as emperor of Brazil from 1840 to 1889. He succeeded under a regency in 1831; was proclaimed of age in 1840; crowned in 1841 and was compelled to abdicate the throne in 1889. His reign was most notable for the emancipation of the slaves.

One of my favorites is my 1/2 guilder from the Netherlands, dated 1861. This is an almost uncirculated silver coin and depicts King William III who was born in 1817 and died in 1890. King of the Netherlands, he came to the throne in 1849. He was the father of Queen Wilhelmina.

Then I have a beautiful silver coin from Austria, a 1 korona dated 1915. It shows Franz Joseph I, Emperor of Austria and King of Hungary. Born in 1830, he died in 1916; ruling from 1848 to 1916. His brother was Emperor Maximilian of Mexico.

I borrowed a Czechoslovakia 10 korun dated 1928 from Mother's coin collection! It has the likeness of Thomas G. Masaryk, the founder and first President of the Czechoslovak Republic from 1918 to 1935 when he retired. Born in 1850; he died in 1937 at the age of 87.

The smallest coin in my exhibit is my 10 ore of Denmark dated 1875. Although it is small in size; it is big in history and I felt it should be in the exhibit! It shows Christian IX who was born in 1818 and died in 1906. King of Denmark, he ruled from 1863 to 1906. Ten Danish kings have borne the name, Christian. Although his kingdom was small and unimportant, members of his family occupied exalted positions. Thus, many sovereigns of Europe before World War I were related to the reigning House of Denmark. Because of this, he was called "The Grandfather of Europe."

Another coin from Italy is an 1866-M 10 centesimi. This copper coin has a likeness of Vittorio Emanuele II who lived from 1820 to 1878. First King of Italy, he was proclaimed King in 1861. He was also born in Turin.

From France, I have an 1864-K 5 centimes, a bronze coin with Napoleon III on its obverse. He was born in 1818. Emperor of the French, he was proclaimed as Emperor in 1852. Taken prisoner of war on the second of September, 1870 at the Sedan defeat; he died three years afterward in England, after his release at the end of the war. His widow lived on alone until 1920.

I have a Belgium 1 franc dated 1867. It is a silver coin with the King of the Belgians, Leopold II on it. Born in 1835, he succeeded to the throne in 1865. A notorious but able ruler, he died in 1909.

From New Zealand, I have a silver 1 florin of 1934 vintage. It has King George V on it. He lived from 1865 to 1936, ruling from 1910 to 1936. During his reign, the crown became, as it had never been before, the connecting link between the Mother country and the self-governing members of the British Commonwealth.

I have a 5 bani from Romania dated 1882. It is copper and has Carol the First on its obverse; he lived from 1839 to 1914. He was King of Romania; elected Prince in 1866; crowned first King in 1881. He was married to Elizabeth of Wied whose pen name was Carmen Sylva.

Another coin with King George V's likeness on it is a 1928 half-crown of Great Britain; another silver coin. King of England, he ruled from 1910 to 1936 during World War I. He was the grandson of Queen Victoria, son of Edward VIII. He died in 1936. His wife, Queen Mary died at the age of 85 in 1953.

This is a brief history of my coins in my exhibit; I have others that I did not exhibit due to lack of room in my cases. I hope to add more cases at a later date.

I have had a number of people express interest in this exhibit at various coin shows. I appreciate their comments and interest. I know if anyone will take the time to read; much history can be learned about their coins through researching their coins as I did. You never know how much history lies in that small box of coins that you have laid aside until you start to catalogue them and get them ready for exhibiting. World history takes on a new meaning. It is even more interesting! And you meet many new friends through your association with others of like interests. A hobby such as coin collecting gives juniors something interesting to do and it also teaches them the value of money. Adults had rather see juniors collect coins rather than hub caps off of parked automobiles, too! It is more educational, also.

Book Reviews

Possession is the grave of bliss. No sooner do we own one great book than we want another.

—A. Edward Newton.

*It was felt by the editor and the reviewer that the next three books by Kurt Jaeger should be reviewed together since they cover a large part of German numismatics and, as a series, would serve as valuable additions to the library of any collector specializing in that study.

Achtung!

DIE DEUTSCHEN BANKNOTEN SEIT 1871 by Kurt Jaeger and Ulrich Haevecker. 171 pages. Illustrated. Hard cover. Published in Germany, 1963. $5.00.

Here is a book that has not gotten the publicity it deserves. It is my idea of all a good catalogue should be. It is a catalogue of German paper money since 1871, and illustrates obverse and reverse (except when blank) of every note from the commonest inflationary type to the rarest pattern. Each major type is given a whole number with letters designating series varieties. Prices in two conditions are given. Each note is described as to the personage, building or allegorical figure shown, and the color and size of each note is given.

The book lists the notes in chronological order covering the Kaiserreich of 1871-1914, the first World War of 1914-1918, the Inflation of 1919-1923, the Renten- and Reichsmark period of 1924-1945, the Allied control period of 1945-1948 and the Bundesrepublik and DDR since that time.

All notes are listed by denomination and issue dates for aiding in attribution, and a table of important terms in German and English will make the easy German text even easier, even the watermarks are diagramed, in fact this book contains everything a good catalogue should, including a "down to earth" retail price. Printed on a good stock calendered paper, fully illustrated with cuts that are clear and sharp, placed where they belong in the text - anyone thinking of publishing a catalogue would do well to use this one as a guide. Ulrich Haevecker, the author, is to be congratulated and Kurt Jaeger, the publisher, did well to tie his name to this works. —Rober A. Lamb.

KONIGREICH PREUSSEN! 1797-1873, by Kurt Jaeger. 80 pages. Illustrated. Hard cover. Munzen and Medaillen, Basel, Switzerland. $4.75.

The name Kurt Jaeger has become synonymous to German numismatics, and this book on Prussian coins only confirms this contention. The book has the illustrations in the text making it easy for the non-German to follow the German text. The era covered is that when Prussia was at the height of her power, and coins of Ansbach-Bayreuth, Neuenburg, Danzig and Pommerania during the time these areas were under Prussian domination are also included. All issues are listed by date and mint, and mintage figures are given for some issues.

Collectors of the earlier booklets of the German-Austrian numismatic series will recognize this as the ninth volume, and the first with a hard cover, which may be an indication that the entire series will eventually be reprinted in this binding, but as for me, the card cover at a lower price would be more in keeping with the small amount of actual material contained in this booklet.

The text is in German, so a dictionary will be needed to get the gist of the historical background and other information in the first twenty pages, a foldout map of Prussia in 1806 will help orient you as to the provinces under Prussian protection and their relative location to the adjoining countries. If you have the rest of the series you will want this one also.

The prices quoted are those of Ernst Stecher, 285 Bremerhaven-Grünhofe, Baunstr. 15c West Germany, and are postpaid, but we have noted these books on U.S. dealers lists at comparable prices.—RAL.

DIE DEUTSCHEN MUNZEN SEIT 1871 BEWERTUNGSTABELLEN by Kurt Jaeger. 166 pages. No illustrations. Hard cover. Published at Basle, Switzerland. $3.25.

A price guide to German coins since 1871, and a companion volume to Die Deutschen Reichsmünzen seit 1871, Basle 1959 by Jaeger, this is the standard works for these issues both here and in Germany. With the increased demand for German coins and the steady advance in German coin prices this completely redesigned price guide will be a must to anyone dealing in or just collecting German coins. The catalogue not only covers Germany, but the German occupation issues of Poland, Ghent, Bohemia-Moravia, New Guinea, East Africa, Kiao Chau, Danzig, and Saarland.

Although there are no illustrations the guide is easy to use in conjunction with any catalogue of German coins with illustrations, or you may want to get the companion volume, still available.

The original price guide had 50 pages and these have been expanded over three times to make it easy to find the date and mint of any coin, and to expand the pricing in two conditions to cover each coin individually. You will be pleasantly surprised at the increases some of your favorites have been given. The black cloth binding and silver Prussian eagle reminded me of a thick German passport, and it will be your passport to pleasure if you are interested in the German market trend of her coins.—RAL.

THE HISTORY OF MODERN ISRAEL'S MONEY, 1917 to 1967, by Sylvia Haffner. 200 pages. Illustrated. Hard cover and paperback. Published by the author. $5.00 and $3.00.

The History of Modern Israel's Money provides a complete and thorough study of the history of Israel and its numismatics. A chronology of the territory of ancient Israel from King Saul, 1020 B.C., to the present date is given, for in Israel the ancient and the modern are tied in together through the living symbols on current coins, commemorative issues, banknotes and medals.

This guidebook is a numismatic depth-study of Israel from 1917 to date, including the British Palestine Mandate. It encompasses the patterns, emergency tokens, mintage figures (showing the different mints and their breakdown), up-to-date-values (compiled from hundreds of dealers' lists over a period of three years and truly reflecting the market today), mint and die-varieties (with over-sized enlargements and line drawings), a reference chart to the previous works of Leo Kadman, now out of print, and a scarcity chart of the pruta series.

For the first time the mystery of the "pearl mark" is authenticated. This mark has governed the market on the pruta series since 1963 and is now reviewed. The lead story before each section brings to the reader a wealth of information about Israel and her people's determination to preserve their freedom and traditions.

A resume of the Central Banks and the Government Agency involved in the distribution of the coins, banknotes and medals of Israel is included to clarify Israel's banking system. For the first time all of the presentation sets issued by an agency of the government of Israel have been catalogued with complete mintage figures.

The New Year remembrances given to collectors by the Israel Government Coins and Medals Corp. Ltd. are also catalogued. The fractional notes of Israel issued in 1952-53 are listed for the first time by signature and color, giving the first complete coverage to a series that has long been neglected. The state medals are catalogued and fully attributed with the issue price for each.

A separate listing of the mints and printers of Israel's coins and banknotes has been compiled. The Palestine Mandate section lists all regular and proof coins and banknotes issued during the British Mandate from 1917-1948, including the Turkish and Egyptian coins of that period.

Mrs. Haffner, lecturer and author of many articles on the coins of Israel, is eminently qualified to author this publication covering Israel's coinage. While other books have delved only into listings and values of these coins, Mrs. Haffner presents the full historical and numismatic aspects of the subject. Many unanswered questions about the coins and banknotes of Israel and their origin are clarified in this book. —PR.

Chaudoir and Schubert

RUSSIAN WIRE MONEY by Frank A Lapa. 16 pages. Line illustrated. Papercovers. Published by author, limited to 1000 numbered copies.

The author writes in his introduction that this booklet is not intended to be a catalogue but that it is designed for those interested in Russia's early coinage, "wire kopecs," and to enable the collector to attribute these pieces without the knowledge of the Russian language.

The information has been gathered from a study of several accumulations which the author had purchased. He states that a text, in English, is long overdue. There are a great number in other languages but these are seldom offered for sale. The serious student would do well to obtain Chaudoir and Schubert.

Although wire kopecs are not rare, they are seldom found in a dealer's stock. Most often they are included in displays of odd and curious monies because of size and minting procedures. Wire kopecs are struck from long thin threads of silver wire from dies that are similar to those used in ancient coin striking. Silver wire was inserted in the die and a blow of the hammer would sever each end. Strikings were uneven and a great many times only half the design would be seen. Double and triple striking are quite common.

Although the price for the booklet is a little steep, $5.00, consideration must be given to the limited printing and demand for the product. It, none-the-less, still makes a unique addition to any numismatic library. —ECR.

The Token Collector's Page

by Melvin Fuld, ANA 11932

Editor's Note: — The Token Collector's Page returns to The Numismatist after an absence of a number of years, last appearing in the April 1961 edition. Readers are referred to the September 1951 issue, page 953, The Classification of Tokens, by Melvin and George Fuld, for the key to the numbers attributed to the tokens listed on these pages. Newer members may obtain this edition from the library.

Collectors who can supply additional information on any of the tokens, published or unpublished, are asked to write to the author at:

These tokens have been attributed to a gambling house located in Oakland, California. Oakland has been called the East Bay area and the translation of the characters on the obverse, top to bottom, is "East Bay." There are several other cities in the East Bay area but the only one in which there was any extensive gambling was in Oakland's Chinatown.

H. F. Bowker, of Oakland, who did the translation for this article advises that he has an identical set of tokens and does not believe that there exists any denominations between the $1 and $20 tokens. They, no doubt, were used between 1900 and 1920 and because we know of only two sets we have given them a rarity of seven (7).

We are quite sure other sets exist and it is strange that these gambling tokens were not published either by Kurth or TAMS in their spielmarken article. They are of excellent workmanship and expertly struck and a fine example of Chinese-American tokenage.

All the characters similar to the top and bottom ones of the $1.00 denomination are Romanized TUNG WAN. All Chinese inscriptions read top to bottom, right to left. The Romanization of the denominations is: 5¢, WU HSIEN; 10¢, YI HAO; 50¢, YI HAO (sic); $1, YI YUAN; $20 ERH SHIH YUAN. HSIEN is equivalent of cent; HAO, dime; YUAN, dollar; and SHIH, twenty.

ANA To Initiate Membership Drive

A proposed membership drive, approved by Ray Byrne, membership committee chairman, will be initiated around September 1 and run through June 30, 1968. Full details will be announced in the next edition of The Numismatist, but the proposals are basically as follows:

1. An individual obtaining five new members (life, regular, junior or club) would be classified as a recruiter and would receive a button with his classification. This he could wear to club meetings proclaiming his active support of the ANA. His name would also appear in The Numismatist and he would receive an appropriate certificate at the 1968 convention.

2. An individual securing ten new members (life, regular, junior or club) would be classified as a booster and receive a larger button stating his classification. His name would also appear in The Numismatist and he, too, would receive a certificate at the 1968 convention.

3. Now, the individual obtaining 25 or more new members (life, regular, junior or club) would be classified as a builder and he will receive an even bigger button. His name will appear in The Numismatist and at the 1968 convention he will receive a very unusual gold embossed certificate.

The object of the buttons, of course, is to build a competitive spirit between club members, each vying with the other to wear the bigger of the buttons at club meetings. Although a membership drive is serious business and the ultimate results benefit all members and numismatists, making a game of it should create a competitive spirit among members trying to build a bigger and better organization for the future.

Club participation has not been overlooked, neither. Recognition for their efforts will be as follows:

4. Clubs who have 51% of their members as members of the ANA will receive a certificate suitable for framing and would be listed in The Numismatist.

5. Clubs having a gain of 5% (minimum of 5) ANA members would be listed in The Numismatist and would receive a ribbon award at the 1968 convention.

6. Clubs having a gain of 10% (minimum of 10) would also be listed in The Numismatist and would receive a rosette ribbon at the 1968 convention.

7. Clubs having a gain of 25% (minimum of 25) would be listed in an appropriate column in The Numismatist and receive a special pennant at the 1968 meeting.

O.K. readers, sharpen your pencils!

LATE WORLD COIN NEWS

ISRAEL

On Israel!

A silver "victory coin" with a nominal value of IL-10 is currently being minted for the Bank of Israel and will be distributed in North America in Sept.

According to the Israel Government Coins and Medals Corp., Jerusalem, distributors for the Bank of Israel, the coin "will express Israel's victory against the aggression of its Arab neighbors earlier this year, and will honor the liberation of the Wailing Wall, Judaism's most sacred shrine."

One side of the coin shows the Wailing Wall of the Temple of Solomon in Jerusalem and the date on which it was restored to Jewish worship. The other side will bear the emblem of Israel's Defense Forces and the nominal value.

Only 50,000 coins will be minted in proof condition. They are distinguishable by their highly polished surface and the tiny Hebrew letter "mem" which appears on all Israeli proof coins. A limited quantity of the total supply has been reserved for collectors and friends of Israel in North America.

Advance mail orders will be processed by the Israel Discount Bank and the Bank Leumi le-Israel in New York. Since an extremely heavy demand is anticipated, orders will be limited to one proof coin per customer. The official government issue price is $10 plus 50¢ for postage and handling.

The "victory coin," which is legal tender, is unusual not only because of its historic and emotional significance but also because its nominal value of IL-10 is double the value of most of Israel's earlier commemorative coins.

CONGO

Zaire You Are!

The government of the Democratic Republic of Congo has informed the International Monetary Fund (IMF) that on June 23, 1967, it introduced a new currency unit called the zaire. An exchange rate has been set at 1 zaire per $2 (US). In terms of the old Congo francs which it replaces the new rate of exchange will be equivalent to CF 500 per $1 (US) in place of the existing CF 150 and CF 180, buying and selling rates respectively, per $1 (US).

The zaire, which replaces the current currency at a rate of 1 zaire equals CF 1,000, is divided into one hundred subunits, called the likuta (plural, makuta). One likuta comprises 100 sengi. Got that!

GREENLAND

Theirs No More

With effect from July 1, Danish notes and coins have officially replaced Greenland currency, which is to be withdrawn by the National Bank of Denmark.

Danish and Greenland coins have for a long time circulated side by side in Greenland, and Danish banknotes have also for sometime been legal tender in Greenland. Coins for some denominations have been exclusively Danish, and several old copper pieces have continued to circulate in Greenland long after their virtual disappearance from circulation in Denmark.

Regulations in respect of foreign exchange transactions that were in effect in Denmark on July 1 were also to apply to Greenland on that date. The newly established Bank of Greenland, Ltd., will act as authorized foreign exchange dealer in Greenland.

SOUTH AFRICA

Something Old, Something New

The first gold Krugerrand coin was struck at the South African Mint in Pretoria in July by the minister of finance, Dr. N. Diederichs. The minting was done with a historic minting press which was used for the striking of the original "Kruger" coins by the mint of the then "Zuid-Afrikaansche Republiek."

The Krugerrand is a new coin in the South African series. It carries no face value inscription. On the reverse side of the coin, together with the reproduction of a springbok designed by South African sculptor, Coert Steynberg, which appears on all South African gold coins, is the date of minting and the words, "Krugerrand" and "Fyngoud 1 oz. Fine Gold" which fixes the value of the coin in relation to the price of gold. The coin thus contains one ounce of fine gold which, together with the copper added to the alloy, gives it a total weight of 33.9 grams. It is the same size as the silver R1 coin.

The obverse bears the effigy of President Kruger of the Zuid Afrikaanshe Republiek with the inscription: "Suid-Afrika - South Afrika."

The Krugerrand is to be minted in limited quantities and is intended for overseas issue where, by arrangement with the Chamber of Mines, distribution will be carried out by a consortium of Swiss banks.

THE APPLICATION OF NICKEL IN WORLD COINAGE 1850 - 1966

Since 1850, 145 countries have issued 954 different denominations in 75/25 copper nickel. Since 1881, 50 countries have issued 133 separate denominations (179 types) in pure nickel.

The total number of countries producing or circulating coins containing nickel in 1966 was 126; total denominations, 523. Countries introducing additional new coins containing nickel, up to May, 1967 11 denominations 29.

Countries producing or circulating pure nickel coins in 1966 was 21; total denominations, 44.

The number of countries circulating coins in 1965 was 182 (not including iron curtain and certain non-reporting countries).

The number of countries using pure nickel coinage in 1966 was 21, making a total of 44 denominations.

The number of countries using 75/25 cupro-nickel in 1966 was 97, making a total of 319 denominations.

John Crout died, five days after suffering a heart attack, on June 24, in Hagerstown, Maryland. He was one of the founders of the Interstate Coin Club, Inc., and had served as its first president in 1961. He also served as show chairman for many of the group's events. A member of the board of directors, he also belonged to the Waynesboro (Pa.) Coin Club.

Crout had collected coins for more than twenty years and he did much to promote the hobby in his area. He is survived by his wife, Josephine, and a son and daughter.—DRH.

Edward D. Mace

ANA 8867

Edward D. Mace, 85, of Spearville, Kansas, died recently in the hospital there where he had been a patient since October 1965. He was born Oct. 13, 1881 at St. John, Kansas, and moved to Spearville in the early 1900s. He was in the insurance and real estate business for many years.

Mace started collecting coins in 1908 and was to receive his twenty-five year medal at the ANA convention in Miami this year. He was survived by a son, a sister, two grandchildren and five great grandchildren.—NC.

Isadore Mandell

ANA 430

Isadore T. Mandell was one of the oldest living ANA members at the time of his death last month in a Fort Lauderdale nursing home. The 94-year old collector had joined the ANA in 1902 and had received his fifty year gold medal many years ago.

Mandell had moved to Florida from New York city seventeen years ago and had operated the "Have A Nut" shop in Ft. Lauderdale. He was survived only by a niece from Mt. Vernon, N.Y.

Bruce E. Squire

ANA 19872

Bruce Squire, 80, died following a stroke suffered at his son's home, Elmhurst, Illinois, where he resided. A former postmaster of Glenn Ellyn, a suburb of Chicago, he had lived in California for many years and played a very important part in the founding of the Glen City Coin Club, Santa Paula, California, and was charter member number one. He served as first vice president in 1960 and then president in 1961. He remained very active and influential in the club as long as he lived in Santa Paula. After illness forced him to return to Illinois, the club, on his 80th birthday, made him Life Member Number One.—LSA.

Rush E. Stouffer

ANA 12925

Rush E. Stouffer was, at the time of his death on May 23, treasurer of the Waynesboro (Pa.) Coin Club. This being the position he has held since he helped found the club in 1961. Born in 1881, he was a retired banker with 52 years service with the Citizens National Bank & Trust Company of Waynesboro.

Silver Certificates Still Redeemable at $1.29

Success of the Treasury Department's coinage program in producing silverless "clad" coins in numbers which can meet any foreseeable needs has led to a decision to halt Treasury sales of silver at $1.29 an ounce.

Future Treasury sales of silver will be at going market prices in amounts up to 2 million ounces a week.

The former price was maintained by Treasury in order to keep silver coins circulating to meet the needs of the national economy.

The rights of people who hold U.S. Silver Certificates to exchange them for silver at the $1.29 rate will not be affected. Also, the legal prohibition against melting, treatment or export of U.S. silver coins will remain in effect.

Secretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler, acting on a recommendation made today at a meeting of the Joint Commission on the Coinage, has halted all sales of Treasury silver at the $1.29 price, effective immediately, and has stated that the Department will consult with General Services Administration on arrangements for conducting future sales of Treasury silver.

It will be sold, as recommended by the Coinage Commission, under a competitive sealed bid procedure, with small, as well as large, purchasers given the opportunity to bid for it, and in amounts to be determined for each sale by the Secretary of the Treasury. Details of the bidding and selling procedure will be announced as soon as they are worked out.

The Secretary will make reports from time to time to the Coinage Commission on Treasury silver supplies and the results of these sales.

Because world demand for silver, which exceeds world supplies, would threaten the U.S. silver coinage, the Treasury, in 1965, obtained enactment of legislation to allow the minting of new dimes and quarters containing no silver, and a half-dollar with silver content reduced.

PRODUCTION OF GLAD DIMES AND QUARTERS

Since then, in two years, the Mints have worked on expedited schedules, to produce 8¼ billion of the new silverless dimes and quarters, as compared to total Mint production of 12½ billion dimes and quarters over the prior 25 years.

The Treasury found it necessary, in mid-May of this year, to confine sales at $1.29 an ounce on U.S. buyers normally using silver in their operations and to invoke its legal authority to prohibit melting, treatment or export of silver coins. This came about because of a rapid rise in purchases of Treasury silver which started in early May and threatened to exhaust existing stocks. Until then, the Treasury had been selling at the $1.29 an ounce price to all comers, in order to keep the world price of silver down until the point could be reached in new coin production at which the supply of the older silver coins would not be a critical factor in maintaining orderly commercial transactions.

At that time, on May 18, the Treasury estimated that by the end of this year, if not earlier, there should be enough of the new coins to meet all U.S. needs. Today's decision represents the conclusion of the Joint Commission on the Coinage, as well as that of Treasury and Mint officials, that this point has now been reached.

With an estimated 8½ billion dimes and quarters in circulation, the Treasury had produced 8¼ billion new coins of these denominations as of yesterday. Moreover, Mint production is planned at a rate of 300 million coins a month for the balance of this year, and the Treasury has enough of the new coin blanks on hand to increase this production rate to 700 million a month if necessary.

The attached chart shows how Treasury coinage production met the need for new coins over the past two and one-half years.

Coinage Commission Studies ANA Silver Dollar Proposal

President Johnson's Joint Commission on the Coinage will, at their September meeting, give serious consideration to the American Numismatic Association's proposal for the equitable distribution of silver dollars now held by the Treasury Department.

The commission was created by the Coinage Act of 1965 to advise the President and the government on the implementation of the coinage program; needs of the economy for coins; standards for coins; technological developments and other considerations relevant to maintaining an adequate coinage system, minting of silver dollars and official maintenance of the price of silver.

One of the most pressing duties of the new commission is to make a recommendation for the disposal of nearly three million silver dollars still held by the Treasury. All are considered to have a numismatic value far in excess of their face.

Extended discussions on a fair distribution of these remaining silver dollars were held between Treasury officials and ANA officers during June. The association's proposal offers to distribute for the Treasury Department the 2,947,899 silver dollars remaining in their vaults in an equitable manner.

The suggestion is to distribute them to the general public at a cost of $5 each plus postage and insurance and to limit the quantity to one or two coins per person to assure the widest possible distribution.

The ANA hopes to receive in return a modest commission and to use the monies thus obtained, after expenses, to establish a trust fund, the interest from which will be used for the advancement of numismatics as an educational pursuit.

The method of dispersing these three million coins is most important. If they are introduced into the established commercial rare coin market place in large quantities, the market will be severely depressed. On the other hand, if they are placed, one or two at a time, in the hands of individual coin collectors and souvenir seekers, the effect on the market will be both minimal and realistic.

Limitations of the Public Auction

The success of the auction is dependent upon the diversity of the material therein. To increase consignors' profits, dealers occasionally suggest to consignors that sizable quantities of like material be spread among several auctions months apart. In this way time is given for demand to redevelop between offerings.

The stock of silver dollars held by the Treasury Department is poorly suited to disposal by public auction. Only the wealthy and those who deal in rare coins could be present. The vast majority of those interested in acquiring silver dollars could bid only by mail. Auction catalogue printing costs would be astronomical. Lots would have to be so large that the individual collector could buy one or two pieces only at resale from a coin dealership represented at the auction. Coin dealers, knowing that silver dollars would glut the market for an extended period, would submit bids far below the prevailing wholesale market prices. In effect, the Treasury would receive less than might be expected for the coins, but the individual seeking one or two pieces would have to pay considerably more, as the dealer would of necessity demand a profit for his services.

Case for Equity

The American Numismatic Association believes that the Treasury Department has the following objectives in mind as it considers plans for the disposition of the silver dollar stock:

- To realize a substantial profit from the sale of the coins which may be credited to the account of the Treasurer of the United States.
- To insure that every member of the American public is granted an equal opportunity to acquire one or more of these silver dollars.
- To dispose of the silver dollars in an efficient manner which would clear the Treasury Department's vaults of these coins in a brief period of time.
- To dispose of the coins through an agency which is uniquely suited to the task, and whose qualifications for performing this function are least subject to question.
- To introduce the coins into the hands of the American public in an equitable manner which will minimize the economic impact of the move.

The American Numismatic Association submits that the most equitable and profitable method of achieving these objectives is through direct mail sale. Such a sale could be extensively publicized in advance. Many nationally

Ladies Day at the Mint

July 29 saw the swearing-in of a new superintendent for the Denver Mint. Replacing Mrs. Fern Miller, who has held the position since 1961, was Mrs. Marian Rossmiller. Pictured above are three of the distaff side of the mint: Mrs. Rossmiller, left; Miss Eva Adams, director of the Mint, Washington; and Mrs. Miller, outgoing superintendent. The lower scene shows Mrs. Rossmiller being sworn in by District Judge Neil Horan. The brief ceremony was witnessed by hundreds of guests and well wishers who crowded the main corridor of the mint building.

syndicated newspaper columnists would choose to include this sale (possibly promoted as "Operation Silver Dollar") in their columns. Numismatic publications would give extensive front-page coverage to the sale.

Every American exposed to the news media would have the opportunity to be informed of the sale. Instructions on how to order the coins would be readily available in various publications, and from the issuing agency.

The method of distribution would be similar to that employed for the sale of United States Proof Coin Sets through 1964, and of Special Mint Sets since 1965. Orders would be processed in the order in which they are received. Not more than one order would be accepted from one individual or one household. Orders could be made for either one or two coins. Acceptance of orders would terminate upon receipt of orders equalling the number of coins available.

Complete details for the proposed distribution, which has been carefully researched, must, since they are still under government consideration, be released at a later date. It is a system, however, that would insure every American the equal opportunity to acquire one or more of these silver dollars, a bit of vanishing Americana, at a reasonable price.

EX MINT HEAD NAMED

Rae V. Biester, who was superintendent of the U. S. Mint in Philadelphia almost nine years—from 1953 to November 1961, has been named special assistant to the president of General Numismatics Corporation.

GNC is a publicly-owned corporation, whose principal activities are in the private minting field. Its Franklin Mint, of Yeadon, Pa., has, in three short years, become one of the largest and most modern private minting facilities in the world.

Mrs. Rae V. Biester

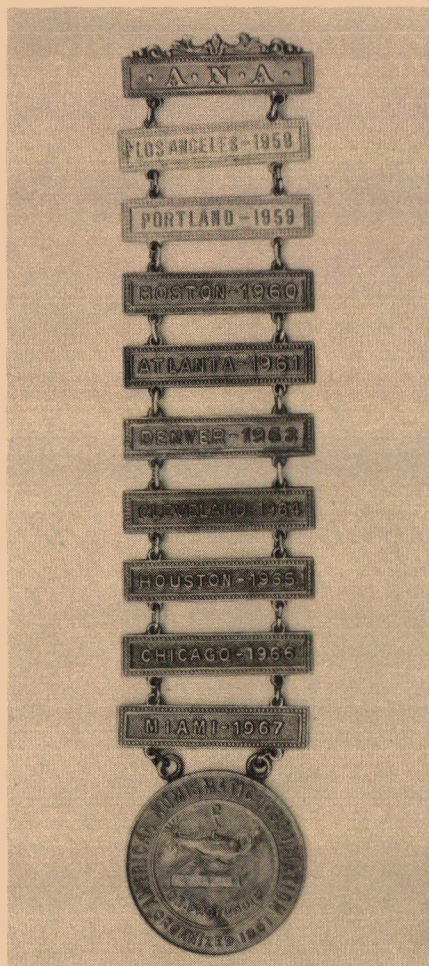

GNC president, Joseph M. Segel said, in announcing Mrs. Biester's appointment, "Rae Biester brings to our organization not only a wealth of practical experience in the administration of a minting institution, but also the warmth and friendliness for which she deservedly won great affection from her previous associates. Her responsibilities in our organization will be primarily in the areas of personnel relations, government relations and community relations."

Mrs. Biester has a distinguished record of accomplishments, and has been the recipient of many honors, such as: Past National President, American Legion Auxiliary; Past President, Philadelphia Federation of Women's Clubs and Allied Organizations, Inc.; Treasurer of Delaware County, Pa.; Member of Board of Trustees of Beaver College; Distinguished Daughter of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania; Honorary Member of American Numismatic Association; District Administrative Assistant to Congressman G. Robert Watkins, and District Executive Secretary to Congressman Lawrence G. Williams, both of Delaware County, Pa.

ANA Convention Badges

by Charles R. Hoskins and Jack W. Ogilvie

All persons attending ANA conventions for many years have seen and admired the beautiful annual convention badges. Their bronze or silver pendants, struck as symbolical tributes to the occasion, are held to the name clasp by colorful ribbons. With the exception of one or two occasions when they were all sold, these badges were issued to all persons who registered for the convention and bore the party's name and address on the nameplate. They are not to be confused with convention medals, issued on several occasions and bearing the exact same striking as the pendant of the badge.

Neither are they to be confused with the badge whose top bar states "ANA" and acts as a clasp which supports a series of other bars naming the city and date of all association conventions the bearer has attended. The last bar holds a pendant stamped with the seal of the ANA.

This badge and its various bars is sold by the ANA and can usually be purchased at a desk near the registration counter at the convention. The convention badge, in most all cases, has been struck by the coin club or association hosting the convention.

Creator of the ANA convention badge was the great numismatist, Farran Zerbe, who was serving as president at the time. At the 1908 Philadelphia convention, he presented all in attendance with a badge made of a Netherlands half-cent with three streamer ribbons attached and stamped "PHIL. - A.N.A. - 1908." Since 1909 these exquisite devices have been issued to date, with the exception of the years, 1918, 1922, 1943, 44 and 45. It seems the 1946 badge was only a cardboard affair, due to the metal shortage.

That the badge would become a collectors item was to be expected. Most all conventioners of the past or present have their collection of badges denoting the various conventions they attended. Oddly enough, there is only one complete collection known at the present. Several are only missing one or two. Due to the particular way they were distributed, it was never seen fit to acquire copies at the time they were issued and very few if any found a home in the archives.

One of the first to take note of the organization's lack of these beautiful mementoes was their creator, Farran Zerbe. In the June and July, 1936 issues of The Numismatist he issued a call for a few badges needed to assemble a complete collection for an ANA exhibit at the Minneapolis convention.

That he and his coordinator, Louis S. Werner, were almost successful in their goal is revealed when it was stated in the list of exhibits at the convention that the ANA badge collection contained all but three of the dates issued. It has since been learned that two of the dates mentioned were years when no badges were issued or struck.

The historian became interested in convention badges as a part of the ANA historical archives about 1960. A check with Admiral Dodson, then curator of medals, revealed that only a very few were in the ANA medal collection, the earliest date being the 1939 New York. Thus, we conclude that those displayed by Zerbe in 1936 were perhaps mostly those he acquired upon registering at the many conventions he attended and were his personal property.

It was only several months ago that curator of medals, Charles Hoskins, and the historian united their efforts and started to solicit a complete set of the badges. The program was given a terrific boost when Lee F. Hewitt, publisher of the Numismatic Scrapbook, donated his personal collection of two dozen badges, dating back to 1933, as a starter. Erich Werling of Oakland, Calif., has contributed eleven, some dated quite early. N. C. Kreinkamp, C. C. Shroyer, Helga L. Ogilvie and the Phoenix Coin Club are also donors. The ANA wishes to thank these members for their contributions and help in founding the ANA Convention Badge Collection.

Further information and a list of badges yet needed to complete this phase of the ANA museum will be published as soon as possible. The historian invites correspondence regarding the badge program. Address on the organizational page.

76th ANNIVERSARY CONVENTION MEDAL

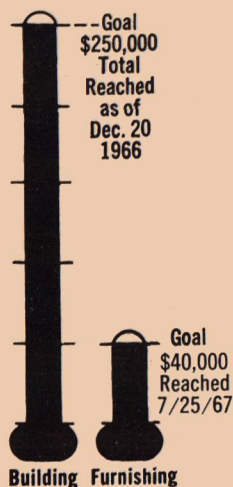

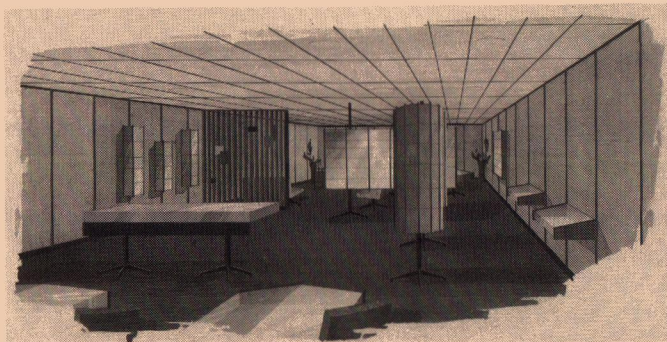

The official ANA 76th Anniversary Convention medal was designed by sculptoress, Margaret Grigor, of Steilacoom, Washington and struck by Medallie Art Company of New York.

The edges are roughly symbolic of classic Spanish pieces. Thus, the obverse finds the Association Seal surrounded by apt replicas of gold doubloons, "Piece of 8" cob and its fractions, and the Pillar Dollar — forerunner of our U. S. monetary system.

The reverse theme is "FUN IN THE SUN." To be seen are a state map, starred at Miami Beach, a galleon — bearer of sunken treasure — our sun and palm-fringed shorelines.

A.N.A. Progress Report

A National Home and Headquarters Will:

- ▶ Make possible more and better services to A.N.A. members through increased efficiency and consolidation of scattered facilities and personnel;
- ▶ Provide for expected rapid growth and expansion of A.N.A. and its programs;
- ▶ House the nation's largest circulating numismatic library and improve the dissemination of numismatic knowledge and information through its audio-visual program and its publications;
- ▶ Provide for the establishment of a national numismatic museum;
- ▶ Be a symbol of the importance of the collecting and study of money from the dawn of civilization to the present and tomorrow;
- ▶ Afford every member an opportunity to have a tangible part in the A.N.A. for its betterment and the advancement and enjoyment of numismatics on a nationwide scale.

Colorado Springs Progress

The building fund drive has been over for some time, the furnishings drive has just been completed with particular thanks to Joseph M. Segel and his donation of GNC stock, the receipts from which completed our fund raising efforts.

Are we done? Not quite, there is the museum itself to complete, yet. Seen above is the preliminary artist's rendition of the proposed museum interior. It is the work of Carlisle B. Guy, the Colorado Springs architect who designed the home and headquarters itself. Plans must be finalized, cases and equipment ordered and manufactured, delivered and installed, before we can say—it's done, finis. Your continued support will be needed.

The American Numismatic Association

The American Numismatic Association, an educational and nonprofit organization, is the largest and most active numismatic body in the world. It invites and welcomes to membership all worthy persons eleven years of age or over, who have a sincere interest in numismatics, whether they collect coins, paper money, tokens or medals, whether advanced collectors or only those generally interested in the subject without being collectors. The Association was founded in 1891, and has about 27,000 members from every state in the Union and many foreign countries. It was chartered for fifty years by Act of Congress May 9, 1912; renewed in perpetuity by Act of Congress April 10, 1962 and is a mutual organization for the benefit of its members.

All Association members, except Associate, receive the official publication, The Numismatist, without cost other than their annual dues. Membership applications should be accompanied by $11.00 to cover admittance fee and the first year's dues. Succeeding annual dues are $6.00. Nonmember subscriptions, $7.50 per year or three years for $20.00. Single copy 75¢. For application blanks or other information, write to Executive Director, P. O. Box 2366, Colorado Springs, Colo. 80901.

The Numismatist is an illustrated monthly which has been issued continuously since its founding in 1888, consists of 128 pages or more in each number with subscribers in about sixty countries. Advertising inquiries should be sent to the Advertising Manager. All other matters for possible publication in or concerning The Numismatist are to be forwarded to the Editor. Unsolicited manuscripts, which are sent at the owner's risk, and other correspondence calling for a reply must be accompanied by stamped, self-addressed envelopes. Opinions expressed in articles published in The Numismatist are those of the authors and do not necessarily represent the views of the American Numismatic Association or the Editor.

Colorado Springs Man Named NCW Chairman

Clark A. Yowell, president of the Colorado Springs Numismatic Society, has been named 1968 National Coin Week chairman, announced Matt H. Rothert, ANA president. Yowell, well-known in collector circles, is also a charter member of CSNS, a charter and board member of the Southern Colorado Numismatic Association, and a member of the Colorado Springs Coin Club.

He brings to National Coin Week many years of numismatic background, his father, Clark S. Yowell, is a frequent contributor to The Numismatist. In public life, Yowell is the Electric Division Engineering Coordinator for the City of Colorado Springs.

This administrative experience is expected to play a leading role in his chairmanship for NCW in helping channel the efforts of the hundreds of clubs and individuals participating. Living in Colorado Springs, a close working rapport between the headquarters staff and the NCW chairman, can be accomplished for better national publicity for the efforts.

AN IMPORTANT NUMISMATIC ANNOUNCEMENT

The CHARLES JAY Collection of United States Gold, Silver and Copper Coins

will be sold at

PUBLIC AUCTION

OCTOBER 27, 28, 1967

A number of years have passed since Stack's has enjoyed the privilege of offering a collection of such high calibre to the numismatic fraternity.

The breadth, the over-all Quality and the rich store of Rarities which are the hallmarks of the Charles Jay Collection offer a range of desirable specimens for every collector of United States coins. Representative Gold, Silver and Copper Coins from Colonial to modern times have been painstakingly gathered, carefully selected for Quality; and then blended into an unusual fine collection.

The following page affords but a brief review of the highlights of the Charles Jay Collection.

Stack's

123 West 57th Street
New York, N. Y. 10019

SOME OF THE HIGHLIGHTS OF THE CHARLES JAY COLLECTION...

PROOF COINS. The collection contains an example of virtually every proof coin in Silver, copper and nickel issued by the U. S. Mint from 1856 to date, including such rarities in proof as 1856 Flying Eagle cent, 1864 'L' Cent, 1867 Rays Five Cents, 1858, 1895 Silver Dollars, all the 1877 rarities, and many, many more.

COLONIAL COINS. A wonderful representation comprising quality and scope not equaled for many years. Among the highlights are a New England Shilling, a set of Continental Dollars in Pewter and Brass, the Immune Columbia in Silver, one of the finest Excelsior Cents and a superb Sommers Island Shilling.

TYPE COINS. A complete type set of U. S. Coins, GOLD, SILVER AND COPPER, including such highlights as Uncirculated 1793, 1794, 1796 with Pole Half Cents; Uncirculated 1793 Cap Cent; Outstanding specimens of 1794, 1797. 1800 Half Dimes; 1796, 1805 Dimes; 1796, 1806, 1820 Quarters; 1795, 1797, 1901 'S', Half Dollars; Lovely Early Dollars, ALL UNCIRCULATED. In the GOLD TYPES, 1796 No Stars Quarter Eagle, 1879 Stella, 1862 $2.50, $10.00, $20.00 Gold Proofs, 1907 Wire Edge with periods $10.00, all very choice, to mention a few.

GOLD DOLLARS. The Finest Collection of Gold Dollars sold at Public Auction. Proofs from 1856 to 1889. Superb Uncirculated examples of 1855 'D', 1856 'D', 1860 'D', 1861 'D'.

THREE DOLLAR GOLD. A virtually complete set of possibly the finest examples ever offered for sale including Proofs of 1857, 1858, 1873, 1875, 1876, 1877.

GOBRECHT DOLLARS. The largest collection sold at Public Auction in several decades. SEVEN different dates and varieties.

PLUS the following GREAT RARITIES . . .

The famous 1792 Birch Cent
Proof 1827 Quarter

The finest 1838 'O' Half Dollar
The UNIQUE 1866 No Motto Dollar

AS WELL AS . . . Proof specimens of early Half Dimes — 1855 3¢ Silver in Proof. A magnificent 1918 over 17 'S' Quarter — Both varieties of the 1839 $10.00. A type set of Bechtler coins — Proof gold such as 1864 $10.00, 1891 $20.00, plus many, many more.

SELECTIONS FROM THE JUDD COLLECTION

- 1792 DISME in silver

The only specimen we have seen (and this month starts our 39th year in professional numismatics). Only 3 known, one having had the date removed. Not to be confused with the copper trial piece, this Disme, along with the Half Disme are truly the first United States Coins.

- 1792 HALF EAGLE. Copper, reeded edge. Judd #12.

Two known, the other in the Smithsonian Institution. Superb, proof-like — a numismatic prize of the highest degree.

- 1794 SILVER DOLLAR, trial of the unfinished die, before the stars had been added. Copper. Judd #18.

Unique — the only known specimen, formerly in the F. C. C. Boyd Collection.

- 1876 SILVER DOLLARS. SET of 8.

A unique opportunity — the only complete set of the proposed designs for the 1876 Silver Dollar struck in Silver. While at least 2 of each of the pieces were struck we can give conclusive assurance to the buyer that this is the only complete set available.

- 1877 FIFTY DOLLARS GOLD. Copper, reeded edge.

A specimen of each of the two die varieties is available. The only gold coins struck from these dies are in the Smithsonian Institution.

World Coin Collectors

Coin collectors, worldwide, are aware of the need for this volume, created by the many new countries and issues that have come into being since the sixth edition of R. S. Yeoman's Modern World Coins in 1964. Current Coins of the World, also by Mr. Yeoman, fills this need. Along with Coins of the World 1750-1850, they form an unparalleled trilogy on world issues 1750 to date, a standard reference source for all coins of the world outside the U. S. Current Coins of the World now becomes the volume that will absorb new issues in succeeding editions. 5" x 7½", 250 pages. At your dealer's. $2.00. No. 9383.

RARE HAWAIIAN COINS AT DISCOUNT PRICES

Low mintage. Listed page 248 of the Red Book. Many melted, especially dollars of which over 400,000 were melted, according to the records at San Francisco. Many additional coins of each denomination were lost to the sea during a revolt by the people against the government in 1893. Few were left. In fact—during my visit to Hawaii I searched the Islands to locate Hawaiian coins and discovered to my amazement that few people living on the Islands even knew that these coins existed. Most inhabitants were amazed when I showed them coins struck by the U. S. Mint for circulation in Hawaii. They are not only no longer in circulation, but few Hawaiians realize that at one time they had their own coinage. Check your Red Book — Excellent investment potential per dollar invested.

SO CALLED DOLLARS

COLORADO "RUSH TO THE ROCKIES" CENTENNIAL — 1959

Purpose was to commemorate 100th anniversary of first mass settlement of state following discovery of gold in 1859 in Central City, once "richest square mile on earth." Included were centennial celebrations of 19 cities including Denver and Colorado Springs.

Highlight of a year of celebration was First Commencement and Official Dedication by President Eisenhower, June 3, of new $136,000,000 U. S. Air Force Academy located against spectacular Rampart Range near Colorado Springs.

Official Medal authorized by 86th Congress; struck at Philadelphia Mint. Issue limited to 10,000 pieces; sold out for $3.50. Congressional designation as a "national medal" permitted striking of additional number upon approval of issuing Commission but Governor Steve McNichols personally advised on April 11, 1960, that no more medals would be struck.

Obv. Covered wagon scene: small circle below containing a buffalo, long arrow across r.; above all Colorado/Rush to the Rockies Centennial; to l., 1859, to r. 1959.

Rev. Seal of Academy, 13 stars around, below MCMLIX—all within center circle; outside around above, United States of America, below Air Force Academy.

Hibler-Kappen list $22.50, our price in original envelope with literature only..... 7.50

PONY EXPRESS MUMEY DOLLAR

Designed and issued by Dr. Nolie Mumey, noted author and historian, Denver as his "contribution to the Centenary of the Pony Express"; issue limited to 500 sterling Silver pieces, sold for $7.50 to $10.00. In November, 1960, issuer advised that all medals had been sold and no more would be struck.

HK-584

Obv. Pony Express Rider galloping r.—in inner circle; outside above around Centenary of the Pony Express; below, around "1860-1960".

Rev. In oval Denver/Apr. 3/1960; outside at lower edge, small Sterling.

Hibler-Kappen list $35.00, our price..... 12.50

MUMEY CONFEDERATE SEAL

Issued by Dr. Nolie Mumey, replica of medal of the Confederate Seal. Designed by Thomas J. Semmes of Louisiana. Statue of George Washington, copied after the monument in the capitol square in Richmond, Va. Wreath around border represents cotton, tobacco, sugar cane, corn, rice and wheat. At bottom, Deo Vindice (God Maintains).

Rev. Issued at Denver, Colorado 1961.

The original seal was never officially used. 500 replicas were authorized to be struck but only 434 were issued. Struck in coin silver.

Our price only 7.50

1963 ANA CONVENTION MEDALS

One each of silver and bronze of the official convention medals issued for the ANA convention in Denver, 1963. Only 500 made and mounted in beautiful custom plastic holder. Our price 12.50

The information used in this ad is from the book SO CALLED DOLLARS by Harold Hibler and Charles Kappen. Many lines are direct quotes. HK designates the number given in the book. We have the book on this interesting subject available at..... 12.50 PP

PLAN TO ATTEND THE BIG P.N.G. SHOW OCTOBER 19-22 IN CHICAGO

With great pride, we announce the issuance of an outstanding artistic work of medallic art. No photograph or reproductive technique can capture the richness and simplicity of this beautiful medallion. The "Four Assassinated Presidents" medal is one of the finest artistic works offered by Presidential Art Medals. This striking historical masterpiece must be seen to be appreciated. It is unusual to find four full view delicately detailed portraits in sculptured high relief on a single large medal. The obverse portrays an exceptional likeness of Lincoln, Kennedy, Garfield and McKinley with their signatures incised below the portraits. The reverse depicts the flag of the United States and the Presidential flag with the following inscription in relief: "PRESIDENTS OF THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA WHO GAVE THEIR LIVES IN DEVOTIONAL SERVICE TO THIS NATION." Dates of each President and the Presidential Seal is in raised relief.

The FOUR ASSASSINATED PRESIDENTS MEDAL is issued as follows:

- 1,000 pieces serially numbered from 1-1000 Silver (.999+) 2 $\frac{3}{4}$ " dia.\$39.50 ea.
 - Unnumbered pieces Antique Bronze 2 $\frac{3}{4}$ " dia.\$ 5.00 ea.
- Descriptive pamphlet and metal desk stand with each medal

PLEASE NOTE: Due to an extremely limited issue of Silver medals, orders are accepted contingent to prior sale. Special plastic holders with gold lettering are available at $4.00 each.

CASH ADVANCE

THAT'S RIGHT ! ! ! ! We will advance a percentage of the fair retail value of your collection immediately upon receipt. We will then sell your collection at one of our forthcoming auction sales and you will receive your final settlement within 30 days after the sale. Our commission rates are always reasonable.

During the time that your coins are in our possession they are stored in our protected and insured vaults. When you receive your advance check, if for any reason you are not satisfied with the amount of the check, just return it and your coins will be returned postpaid.

In many cases our advance will be almost equal to others offer of outright purchase.

If you are not currently on our mailing list, just drop us a postcard with your full name and address and we will place your name on our catalogue mailing list.

REMEMBER — It is not too late to have your collection included in our next outstanding auction sale.

OUR SALES ARE USUALLY HELD IN THE PARKER HOUSE

We are always in need of desirable numismatic material and will be happy to travel anywhere in the world to acquire it — either for auction or for outright purchase provided the value of the material warrants it.

NO COLLECTION IS TOO LARGE — We will furnish bank references upon request.

WE ARE MOVING

UNCIRCULATED U. S. SILVER DOLLARS FROM COEN-MESSER CO. WHERE QUALITY COUNTS

Our previous ads offering our TOP QUALITY BU SILVER DOLLARS met with such stimulating success, that we offer them again. We have modestly raised the prices of the common dollars to keep in line with the price of the bags of common dollars which have risen in price from $1500.00 per bag to a current price of $2100.00.

Our SELECT BU COIN is generally better struck than the Average BU will contain a lesser degree of bag-marking and will always have full NATURAL LUSTER.

If you have not ordered from us before, why not join the ranks of our growing number of highly satisfied customers. In order to service everyone, we think that we maintain one of the largest stocks of truly "FROSTY" BRILLIANT UNCIRCULATED DOLLARS.

When in New York, stop in and browse around, our new location is within a short walking distance from STACK'S, and LESTER MERKIN.

Complete Set, 128 Notes — Incomparable

I own only complete set known, Federal Reserve Bank Notes, series of 1915 and 1918, totaling 128 notes. Of these, 120 are superbly uncirculated, including all the great rarities: #735, 741, 755, 763, 770, 781, 788, 806, 815, 820, 822-a, 829, and 831. The eight not uncirculated are X-F to A.U. This set is for sale at $25,000.

Also have some attractive low serial numbers, and replacement (star) notes in the series of 1918 — particularly in the $1's and $2's.

First checks to arrive have first chance at this superior material, listed above. Satisfaction is guaranteed. The customer, as always, must be happy with his purchase.

ARGENTEUS

The first and unique attempt to establish an International Coinage! Write for a free booklet!

The Argenteus is coined of pure silver in Munich, a capital of art in Europe. The reverse is always the same and bears a six-pointed Cross of lilies as a sign of world-unity. The inscription is in Latin and means: For the Prosperity of the World.

Shown in original size! Brilliant proof! Silver content 999/1000, as pure as possible!

The small Argenteus (Single) 15 gr.	4.00
The big Argenteus (Triple) 45 gr.	8.00
5 different small pieces, together	18.00
5 different big pieces, together	35.00
All 10 pieces on this page, together	50.00

The mailing will be at our expense as Registered Letter by Air Mail. Name sizes and types! Send your order and check (payable in advance) to

U. S. COINS FROM THE SUNFLOWER STATE

No listings this month. Just an important announcement.

We have purchased a Bank Building, and by the time this is in your hands we expect to be moving our business.

Our Business will remain principally mail order, but if you are ever out this way let us know in advance and by appointment we will try to have whatever you wish to see at your disposal.

Post Office right across the street . . . brick building, air-conditioned . . . large offices, vaults, stock rooms and shipping room, all properly equipped . . . it all adds up to your continued great satisfaction and we hope to serve you in the same unexcelled manner as in the past.

Please give us your want lists — we'll quote on whatever we have or will, if you wish, endeavor to obtain it.

"Introducing a Remarkable New Payment Plan"

We have received numerous requests asking for a lower minimum on our Payment Plan. After careful consideration we have decided to comply with these requests. Commencing immediately the new minimum order on Payment Plan is 50 Dollars. WITH 12 MONTHS TO PAY.

As soon as we receive your 10% deposit, we will send you a contract for our mutual protection. The coins will then be packed, labeled, and stored in our vaults under your name. Immediately upon receipt of your final payment, the coins will be rushed to you.

Our only requirement is that we receive at least one payment a month. There are no interest or hidden charges. Our advertised price is all you pay.

Write today for our latest catalogue which features

COINS FROM COMMONWEALTH

Colonial Coins

We maintain a select stock of American colonial coins, all carefully attributed and unconditionally guaranteed to be genuine. We are happy to ship on approval upon the receipt of references. We believe you'll be pleasantly surprised at our prices. Won't you give us a try?

We are also interested in purchasing colonials, common or scarce varieties, individual pieces or entire collections. If you are considering the sale of your coins, we would appreciate the opportunity of making an offer. All communications will be promptly and courteously acknowledged.

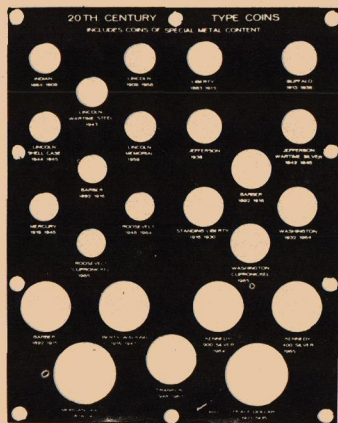

IT PAYS TO DO BUSINESS WITH COMMONWEALTH!

Why Keep Coins in a Plastic Holder?

Obviously for the superb eye appeal they present, but more important to preserve your coins' value. A CAPITAL holder prevents fingerprints, scratches and will keep so called black "Carbon Spots" from destroying the coin. These spots may be formed by moisture from the mouth, a sneeze or just someone talking animatedly. The acidity present has its effects. May we suggest wiping the coins with a very soft chamois before placing them in a holder. A CAPITAL HOLDER OF COURSE!

20th CENTURY TYPE COINS HOLDER No. 460

Only 8 x 10 in size with spaces for 24 coins. (This includes the clad coins). Available in black, white, blue, green or red.

TEN CROWNS WORTHY OF YOUR COLLECTION

GERMAN NEW GUINEA Y7. The Bird of Paradise coin. Not too scarce in VF or EF condition, but in top condition it is in a class by itself. Choice Unc. $325.00; Beautiful toned proof ..	700.00
NORWAY Speciedaler 1642 Schou 5. Earlier Norwegian crowns in better condition are few and far between. This VF-EF specimen purchased from an important French collection	160.00
SPAIN Y68. This is a rare enough coin in any condition bringing $400 or more in Spanish auctions, but this is the only pattern of this piece we have ever seen. Choice copper piedfort	350.00
SWEDEN 1718 D1716. This date is very scarce. Nearly VF	200.00
TIBET 1909 Y12. The only crown from this country. Rarely offered and certainly underpriced. Nearly VF	70.00
URUGUAY Montevideo 1844 Peso. WR1 Y10. Choice EF	375.00
VENEZUELA 1874 Pattern for WR1. Plain and reeded edge. The pair of these extremely rare toned proofs	2000.00
ZANZIBAR Ryal Y5 EF and genuine	250.00

Sample copy of our current list on request. Year's airmail subscription $1.

WHOLESALE FOREIGN COINS

While my business is primarily retail, specializing in modern minor foreign coins, I do issue a large wholesale list of the same type of material, available to dealers who write for it on their letterhead or show other evidence of dealership.

This list is a full 18 pages, only a couple pages of "filler", the rest packed solid with listings of coins per 5 or 10 (some per 1 and per 100, too) at wholesale prices, such that you can resell them at a profit. Most are in nice condition, too.

If you maintain a store, or do business by mail, you should find many profit-making coins available.

Please write for this wholesale list now; no postcard requests for this—no charge, either. If you collect and are not a dealer, ask for the retail lists—also without charge. You might find them surprising.

Experimental Issue of 1935 Silver Certificates
The famous "R" and "S" Notes

Issued in June 1944 as an experiment to test the quality of regular and special paper. The red "R" indicating regular paper and the red "S" the experimental paper, made of special chemicals. The results of the experiment were not conclusive.

Only 1,184,000 pairs were imprinted. After a period of circulation almost all of these notes found their way back to the Treasury, making the supply very short for collectors. All of these notes are very scarce and when found in new condition, they are indeed very rare.

We offer absolutely perfect notes in crisp uncirculated condition.

The "R" and "S" notes as a pair $125.00
